MERGER PLANS FOR COMMERCE UNITS OPPOSED

BUREAUS' TRANSFER MAY BE ABANDONED

Business Men Like Present Department Service for Assisting Trade.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Transfer of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce from the Department of Commerce to the Consular Service of the State Department is under serious consideration by those who are playing with reorganizing the Government, but the proposal has raised such a storm of protests from responsible sources that it may be abandoned.

The proposed transfer is said to have met with the acquiescence of the new Secretary of Commerce, Daniel C. Roper, after conferences with former Representative Lewis Douglas, of Arizona, whom President Roosevelt named Director of the Budget, and Swagar Sherley, of Kentucky, a former member of the House, who has been described as a volunteer aid in reorganizing the governmental services.

Against their approval, however, there has arisen the opposition of some of the most important business men and business organizations in the country.

Reasons for Objection.

These have protested that they fought for years to get the purely commercial foreign service of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce separated from the intricacies of the State Department, with its varying policy from one administration to another. They have told the White House that they do not want to go back to the old days and have said that there is no other bureau in all the Government from which the business men of the country can get such quick, varied and effective service as from the bureau as now organized.

Among organizations which are known to have registered strong and determined protests against the plan are the American Exporters and Importers Association, American Manufacturers Export Association, Committee on Interamerican Business, Export Managers Club of New York; Foreign Traders Association of Philadelphia, National Association of Credit Men, National Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., National Foreign Trade Council, Overseas Automotive Club, Technical Products Export Club, World Trade League of America, and others.

Although no one in the Consular Service in Italy is likely to stick his head up for a vicious rap by opposing the plan, it is known that the Consular Service does not want to take over the job now being done by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. That was fought out years ago and the Consular Service has been glad to get rid of the task

Jamaicans Act to End Dumping by Japanese

Kingston, Jamaica, March 23 (A.P.). A definite move was taken by the legislative council today to call upon the government to put an end to what was termed the dumping of Japanese goods in the island.

It was charged that dumping is dislocating the colony's trade with Great Britain and Canada. Heavy specific duties were proposed.

LABOR SECRETARY DEFENDS AID PLAN

Neither House Likely to Act on Reforestation Measure During Week.

(Associated Press.)

Miss Frances Perkins, President Roosevelt's Secretary of Labor, upheld before a battery of Congressional critics yesterday the plan of her chief for putting thousands of unemployed to work, at nominal wages, on conserving forest lands.

She emphasized that this was a relief, rather than an unemployment, measure.

"These are not jobs, in the true sense of the word," she told the members of Senate and House Labor Committees, meeting in joint session, but the plan, she maintained, would preserve the self-respect and morale of thousands who now are "living by their wits" in large cities.

But though she clearly impressed the committee with her exposition on every point, the prospect last night was that neither house would act on the bill before next week. The committees will continue their hearing today, with leaders of organized labor expected to be heard in opposition, directed particularly at the $1 a day rate of pay proposed for the workers in the civilian "conservation corps."

Criticism was showering down upon the President's plan for members of the two committees when Miss Perkins appeared, wearing her customary three-pointed black hat and black coat.

Standing near the head of the long table, around which the House and Senate members sat, she took the objections up one by one and

Led by Eufemio Lopez; Cienfuegos Bombings Close Theaters.

Havana, March 23 (A.P.).—A report reached Havana today that a group of well-armed rebels, headed by Eufemio Lopez, one-time rural guard, had taken the field near Cienfuegos.

Aiding Lopez as lieutenant is Joaquin Menendez, special policeman, who was attached to the provincial government while Col. Roberto Mendez Penate was governor of Santa Clara Province, the report said.

Eight more youthful political prisoners were brought to the capital today, two from Manzanillo in Oriente Province, four from Santiago and two from Santa Clara. Film distributors here were advised that Cienfeugos theater owners had decided to close their doors because of several bombings in the last few days.

25 New Nazi Attacks Bring Polish Protest

Warsaw, March 23 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Twenty-five new attacks are the subject of an official complaint lodged by the Polish Ambassador with the German ministry of foreign affairs.

Among the cases of brutality cited are those of seven Jews who were taken from various cafes, carried off to Nazi locales, maltreated and flung out into the streets almost unconscious.

HARRIMAN CASE DELAY TO BRING SENATE INQUIRY

ACTED IN 24 HOURS AFTER HANDS UNTIED

Mitchell Says Matter Was Not Brought Up While He Had Office.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—A determination to scrutinize the circumstances surrounding a three-months' delay in the prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman, resigned chairman of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., was announced today by counsel for the Senate committee, whose inquiry into stock market practices already has resulted in far-reaching disclosures.

A statement to that effect came from Ferdinand Pecora. It was coupled with a promise to gather all the available facts and present them to the committee at a public hearing, if the matter was found to fall within the scope of the Senate's resolution authorizing the committee's activities.

Attorney General Cummings in Washington said the prosecution of Harriman, now charged with making false entries in the accounts of his closed bank, was held up at the direction of William D. Mitchell, Attorney General in the Hoover administration.

Mitchell Denies Knowledge.

Mitchell said at Charleston, S. C., however, that the case had not been brought to his attention while he was in office. He disclaimed knowledge of any delay being ordered by the Justice Department.

Cummings explained that "apparently the impression was that the delicate financial situation at that time brought the judgment that prosecution might be well deferred." Cummings added that he meant no criticism of his predecessor and that the situation was to be judged on the basis of circumstances as they were at the time.

He answered one question as to his attitude toward Mitchell's action by referring to a Biblical verse: "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

"It will do you all good to read it," he said, smiling.

The delay in prosecuting Harriman, who was arrested in his sickbed a week ago last Tuesday, came to light through a depositors' protective committee, which demanded the appointment of a special prosecutor to supersede United States Attorney George Z. Medalie on the ground he had been dilatory.

Medalie then issued the following statement:

"I acted within less than 24 hours after I was authorized to proceed, by the commencement of prosecution upon a warrant issued for Harriman's arrest.

Plenty of Pressure.

"The Comptroller of the Currency, as well as counsel for the clearing house, requested the Department of Justice at Washington, at the time the facts were transmitted to me, to

10,000 Jews Seek German Boycott

New York City Cantors at Municipal Hall Chant Death Dirge.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Ten thousand Jews marched to City Hall today to the mournful chant of "El Molai Rachmem," death dirge, to protest alleged persecutions in Germany and to call for a boycott of German goods.

The Torah, Jewish sacred scroll, was carried in its silver case, and the dean of the city's cantors chanted.

Meanwhile, in Berlin, the German government in a statement warned that any boycott would affect the United States more adversely than Germany and asked how, if a boycott "agitated by certain American circles" were carried out, "is the question of private debts to be regulated properly?"

Cooling Off

French Sentiment Backing Debt Payment Is Fading Out.

Paris March 23 (A.P.).—Payment of the $19,000,000 defaulted interest on war debts owed to the United States since last December 15 appeared to be going into an eclipse tonight.

A message from Premier Daladier to members of the Socialist Party, saying he would not act until American policy was made fully known, and a sudden drop in enthusiasm on the part of many deputies made a majority for a pending resolution calling for the payment appear impossible.

Deputy Rene Richard last Saturday introduced such a resolution, mentioning in a preamble what he characterized as a money and credit crisis in America.

The decision of the premier to await definite knowledge of the American atitude on war debts was conveyed to the Socialists today by Deputy Pierre Renaudel. The deputy explained he had been informed by the premier that many deputies and a number of ministers had urged payment, but he thought it wise to await a clear definition of American policy.

Meanwhile Georges Bonnet, minister of finance, denied that a united front on the American debt issue had been formed by Great Britain and France. During a recent visit to London in connection with the forthcoming world economic conference debts were not discussed, he said.

STATE BANK AID BILL IS FINALLY ENACTED

Glass Vainly Warns Senate Against Letting Down Restrictions.

(Associated Press.)

Congress yesterday completed action on a bill to extend the emergency banking act's lending privileges conditionally to State banks outside the Federal Reserve System and then recessed until Monday to await formulation of other proposals.

After another day of debate, marked by a warning from Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, that to open the Reserve System funds to nonmembers without the same restrictions required of member banks would hasten the "wreckage" of unsound institutions, the Senate passed the House-approved bank bill with some amendments.

Less than half an hour later, the House, which had been in recess waiting for the Senate to act, concurred in the amendment. Both Speaker Rainey and Vice President Garner were authorized to sign the bill during the recess so President Roosevelt might affix his signature before the reconvening of Congress next week.

Under the bill as finally approved, State banks and trust companies not members of the Reserve System could borrow from reserve banks on the same conditions as member banks.

They must put up security regarded by the lending banks as adequate, must be certified by State banking departments as sound, must maintain reserves the same as member institutions, and undergo a "thorough examination" by the reserve banks.

The securities given for the loans would be eligible for new currency issues by the reserve banks.

Senator Adams (Democrat), of Colorado, tried to strike out the "thor-

4 YEARS RULE VOTED HITLER BY REICHSTAG

SOCIALISTS SNOWED UNDER BY 441 TO 94

Nazi Leader Avers Germany Would Cut Armaments if Others Do Likewise.

Berlin, March 23 (A.P.).—Germany became a dictatorship under the old Prussian system today when the Reichstag handed over to Adolf Hitler power to govern by decree for the next four years.

The Socialists objected, but they were snowed under in the Reichstag by a vote of 441 to 94.

"The first chapter of our movement is closed," said the chancellor, addressing a multitude from a balcony after the Reichstag had adjourned, "Now we begin the second!"

What happened today was inevitable. The Reichstag, packed with the chancellor's own Nazi supporters, could do nothing but accede to his demand for the passage of an enabling act which empowers the government, among other things, to draft a new constitution.

Hitler Delivers Message.

It was all done in regular form. Herr Hitler, in spic-and-span brown uniform, appeared at the morning session of the Reichstag and delivered a message covering the complete program of his government.

Much of it was familiar Nazi doctrine. Restoration of the monarchy, he told the members, is not a matter for discussion at this time "while conditions prevail which necessitate focusing our attention solely upon saving the German people from indescribable misery."

"Destruction of Communism is a purely domestic issue which does not concern any foreign power," he declared, "yet, further development of Communism in this country would have meant catastrophe for all Europe."

Touches on Arms.

His message touched only in a general way upon other outstanding issues. Of disarmament he said: "Germany has been waiting years for other nations to fulfill their promises to reduce armaments. We would gladly refrain from increasing our own if the others would agree to radical reduction of theirs."

When he had finished delivery of his message the Reichstag adjourned, reconvening in the afternoon to do the work cut out for it. Then the Reichstag adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

White House to Have Pool Much Needed by President

$10,000 Will Be Accepted From Fund Raised by Group of Newspapers; Many Children Contribute to Gift to Provide Exercise.

(Associated Press.)

The White House is to have a swimming pool soon, but the money won't come from the Treasury.

A movement started by a newspaperman in New York and joined by 43 other papers is directed at raising funds to construct a small cement tank approximately 20 by 40 feet, where President Roosevelt can take much-needed exercise.

The newspapers began the campaign without the Chief Executive's knowledge, but he is inclined to accept the fund for several reasons. One is that he does not want to take any money from the depleted Treasury.

Another is that he feels a declination would come as a rebuff to those —many of them school children—who have contributed generously to the fund. Then, too, the President, since he took office, has keenly missed the form of exercise best suited to him.

Present plans are for the pool to be built in the west wing of the White House between the executive offices and the White House proper. The sponsors of the fund intended to have an elaborate outdoor pool constructed on the south grounds of the White House, but Mr. Roosevelt vetoed that idea because he did not want to change in any way the present architectural design of the Executive Mansion.

The pool now planned will cost about $10,000, which is all that will be accepted from the fund already raised. It was stated emphatically also that the White House itself will receive no contributions directly.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, already has made a preliminary survey preparatory to starting work on the pool. Apparently there are no obstacles to placing it in the west wing.

It was made known yesterday at the White House that the President will use the Commerce Department inspection boat, Sequoia, for brief sea journeys when he finds time to get away from Washington.

D. C. BEER BY APRIL 7 WINS IN HOUSE VOTE; EAST TO DRINK FIRST

Papers Allowed To Run Certain Kinds of Ads.

DRY LEADERS MAP BATTLE

Railroads Begin Fight With Truck Lines for Traffic.

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ.

With the river of beer in sight, Government officials and brewers last night were fighting through a tangle of practical difficulties which must be cleared before the amber flow is attained.

Newspapers will be allowed to carry beer advertisements, of certain sorts, before the sales restrictions are removed. Railroads have already begun to fight the truck lines for the beer traffic. Beer sales will be allowed after midnight April 7, according to local time, and not by Eastern standard time. The Department of Justice is investigating the possibility of freeing Federal prisoners held for beer violations. And the commissioner of industrial alcohol, Dr. James M. Doran, is ready to send 650 field workers to licensed breweries to release the beer stream.

Drys Map Fight.

On the other side of the picture, dry leaders made ready to take the constitutionality of the new law to court. They will also attempt to block the sale of beer through injunctions, it was reported.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings passed on the question of beer advertisements yesterday. So long as they do not urge illegal sale they may legally be carried he said. It is "discreet" to mention the date when beer may be sold legally in the ad, the Attorney General said.

Bound by Ruling.

The Postoffice Department will be bound by this ruling and permit the mails to carry papers containing beer advertising, Horace J. Donnelly, solicitor for the department, said last night.

Southwestern railroads yesterday asked permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce their rates on beer.

The Western part of the country had hoped that beer would become legal throughout the Nation at the same time, at midnight, Eastern standard time, April 6-7. This would give the Far West beer at 9 o'clock at night, its time being later. As it is, the foam will froth here three hours earlier.

Prison Records Surveyed.

A survey of prison records of liquor violators is being made by the Department of Justice to see if it will be possible to distinguish the hard-liquor violators from the illegal beer brewers and peddlers. Even if they can be distinguished, it was pointed out, there will still be a question as to whether the beer they sold was stronger than 3.2 per cent.

The distribution of $5 beer tax stamps has already begun, and the bottling of beer to be held for sale is permitted. The field workers at the brewery will release the trucks carrying beer on the big night and will keep an account of the amount shipped.

Tokyo Acts to Hold Islands Reported

Order to Sound Out German Opposition Is Sent to Embassy.

Tokyo (Friday), March 24 (U.P.).—Diplomatic action in the looming dispute over possession of Japanese-mandated islands in the Pacific was taken today, the newspaper Nichi Nichi said.

The paper reported that Foreign Minister Yasuya Uchida had instructed the Japanese Embassy at Berlin to ascertain truth of reports that Germany will insist on the League of Nations deciding disposition of the islands.

The archipelagoes, former German property, were mandated to Japan after the World War.

District Barmaid Ban Being Asked by Union

Beer will be served in the District by male waiters, and not by "bar maids," if the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Alliance, No. 781, can do anything about it.

"We do not intend that our women shall be used for commercial purposes in attracting customers," Charles E. Sands, secretary of the local, said in a statement last night.

"We are opposed to bar maids in the District, no matter how they are dressed."

He said they will present their views at today's Senate District Committee hearings, and also carry them to the Commissioners.

MAN HELD IN MIAMI IN LINDBERGH CASE

Former New Yorker Charged With Mailing $50,000 Extortion Letter.

Miami, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—Gilford Clobridge, 33, formerly of Staten Island, N. Y., was arrested here today and charged with sending Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, at Hopewell, N. J., an extortion letter demanding $50,000.

He also was charged with attempting to send through the mails a pint of liquor to Federal Judge Halstead L. Ritter, to which was attached a note signed "Nan," which Clobridge said was his wife's nickname.

The Lindbergh extortion letter was disclosed while Edgar O. Jones, postoffice inspector, investigated the discovery by a postal clerk of the pint of liquor in the mails. The letter written to Col. Lindbergh was sent here by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of the New Jersey State pouce.

Crudely written in capital letters on the stationery of a Savannah, Ga., hotel, the note said:

"I want you to send me 50,000 dollars or you will no what will hapen. Address the letter with the money in to (L.B). (318) Greenwood ave West Brigton, Staten Island N Y I want it buy the 13 of this month. Don't fail me."

The envelope was postmarked "Miaimi, March 8."

Federal authorities said Clobridge told them the "L. B." referred to in the letter was Mrs. Lily Bernfield Edwards, sister of his wife.

He has been separated from his wife for some time, authorities quoted Clobridge as saying, and conceived the extortion demand as a "way to get even" with her and her relatives. He also decided to sign his wife's nickname to the liquor package addressed to Judge Ritter "to get even," he continued.

Clobridge was bound over to the Federal grand jury under bond of $10,000.

Armed Man Tries To Get to Hoover

Surrenders Gun to Guards After Palo Alto Scene and Is Freed.

Palo Alto, March 23 (U.P.).—William Compogiani created a furor at the Herbert Hoover estate here today when, after being denied admittance to see the former President, he surrendered a loaded pistol to guards. He was released after Palo Alto police questioned him.

"If you're afraid to let me go in there, take this gun and keep it till I come out," he reputedly told a guard, surrendering the pistol.

Lawrence Richey, secretary to Mr. Hoover, said investigation showed Compogiani wanted to ask advice of Mr. Hoover about collecting a bill. Thinking he was being denied admittance because he carried a gun, he surrendered the weapon, meaning the act as evidence of good faith, Richey said.

Agent Guarding Rum Is Killed by Mistake

Knoxville, Tenn., March 23 (A.P.). Tom Sizemore, deputized as a prohibition agent to guard a car of liquor, was killed, and Deputy Sheriff Tom Atchley, 36, and his brother, Mack, 29, were wounded today when two sets of officers, apparently mistaking each other for liquor runners, engaged in a gun fight 12 miles east of Knoxville.

A bullet struck Deputy Atchley in the eye. Hospital authorities said his condition was serious. His brother was shot through the shoulder, the bullet lodging in his jaw.

Bill Bars Sale to Minors Under 18 In Capital.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The District beer bill, riddled with regulatory amendments but legalizing sale of 3.2 per cent brew in Washington by April 7, was pushed through an uproariously impatient House yesterday and sped merrily on its way to the Senate.

Hearings before a wet Senate District subcommittee immediately were called for 2:30 p. m. today. Chairman Millard E. Tydings predicted a favorable report before the day is out. The hearing will be broadcast—a historical departure in Capitol procedure.

The final House vote on the beer bill, 180 to 53, followed four and a half hours of mostly unruly debate. A profusion of amendments, virtually rewriting the bill, were poured in constant stream over the Speaker's desk. They were rejected or approved at random.

New Features in Bill.

New features, finally incorporated in the amended bill, provide:

Beer can not be sold to minors under 18, on penalty of a $100 fine or six months imprisonment.

Persons convicted of felony can not be licensed to sell beer, or work in any licensed establishment.

The Commissioners may increase or decrease the number of licenses at discretion, and can revoke licenses put to "unlawful, immoral or disorderly" uses.

The local brewery license fee is increased to $1,000 a year.

Incorporated clubs which charge less than $15 a year in membership dues can not be licensed.

Revoking of Licenses.

Licenses can be revoked permanently and premises excluded from beer traffic for six months for law violations.

A like number of amendments were shouted down. Rejected proposals ranged all the way from a clause prohibiting sale of beer on Federal property to a provision specifically authorizing "wine" by name.

Although "fermented beverages" of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content were sanctioned, the bill as passed makes no mention of wine. It will be for the corporation counsel to decide whether wine can be sold as a "fermented beverage."

Revised Version of Bill.

The Senate District Beer subcommittee this afternoon will be asked to substitute an entirely revised version of the bill, carefully prepared as a "model measure" in the corporation counsel's office before yesterday's House action. Many of its features

ROOSEVET HASTENS MORTGAGE PROGRAM

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt hastened the preparation of his plans for refinancing farm mortgages on a gigantic scale yesterday to supplement his farm relief program already passed by the House.

Ignoring the threats of a bitter legislative fight in the Senate over the relief plan beginning today, administration leaders said they would attempt to tack the mortgage program on to it and predicted approval of the double load of agrarian aid within a week.

The tentative draft of the mortgage plan calls for refinancing present debts with new Government bonds up to a limit of $2,000,000,000. It would provide machinery to facilitate a voluntary scaling down of the heavy farm debt structure, now estimated at more than $9,000,000,000 in the form of mortgages alone.

Centralization Planned.

Also, it will seek to reach the short-term farm indebtedness, estimated up to $3,000,000,000, through centralization of existing scattered credit agencies and new loan powers.

Enemies of the relief measure which paraded through the House without being dented by a single amendment, set themselves for the start of their battle before the Senate Agricultural Committee today. Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, demanded public hearings, but the administration's insistence on speed to make the plan applicable to this year's crops indicated that none might be held.

Chairman Smith, who is opposed to the measure in its present form, said he will offer a substitute, the terms of which he closely guarded except to explain that in his opinion it would not seriously conflict with the Roosevelt plan.

He favors modification of sections incorporating the domestic allotment plan and some of the provisions authorizing Secretary Wallace to carry on an extensive land-leasing policy to retire lands engaged in surplus production.

To Require Many Days.

It was estimated that senators, members and nonmembers of the committee, alike, have in preparation more than 100 amendments for the relief measure. Even though the number offered would be greatly reduced below that figure, it was indicated that Senate consideration will require many days.

Entreaties from every agricultural State have been made to the President to put mortgage legislation before Congress quickly. Arthur J. Mullen, of Nebraska, telegraphed that his State regarded it as more immediately needed than the relief program with its proposed delegation of broad and extraordinary powers to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Is Sent to Woodin.

The President called in for conferences on the mortgage plan Speaker Rainey, Senator Robinson, majority leader; Henry Morgenthau, jr., Farm Board chairman, and the latter's assistant, Dr. W. I. Myers, of Cornell University, who has drawn up many of the bill's provisions. The bill was sent to Secretary Woodin for examination of features involving financing.

Because the administration found many dissimilarities in the problem a program of mortgage relief for small home owners will be made a separate measure.

The new centralized farm credit agency, which soon will be assembled under Morgenthau's direction, will handle the farm mortgage plan's administration. Besides consolidating eight agencies now handling farm credit, the new central agency will call for extension of the farm loan system now handled under direction of the Federal Farm Loan Board.

Liquidation to Be Aim.

Speaker Rainey said that immediate and complete liquidation of Joint Stock Land Banks will be one aim of the measure; that "conciliatory methods" will be attempted to bring the face value of mortgages down in many cases in line with the reduced value of farm land.

One point remained unsettled. That is whether the refinancing will be attempted by the issuance of Government bonds and lending of funds raised in this way directly to farmers, or exchange of Government bonds for farm mortgages. To protect the Government against loss, the plan contemplates revaluation of property before refinancing of any sort is approved.

Fundamental aims of the program are two—First, availability of funds to farmers whose avenues of credit have been greatly curtailed; second, a greatly reduced rate of interest and longer terms for the repayment of principal. A period of from 36 to 42 years is being considered with interest and amortization payments to be lumped with payments probably on a basis of twice annually.

Starling Problem Will Be Passed On

New D. C. Commissioners to Inherit What to Do About Birds.

The chances are that the perennial problem of what to do about the starlings will be left for the new municipal administration.

Resolutions adopted by the Federation of the Citizens Associations and the North Capitol Citizens Association asking the Commissioners to make a study of the matter, with a view to correcting it, arrived yesterday at the District Building.

District officials intimated, however, that the retiring Commissioners, though entirely familiar with the habits of starlings, have no definite plans for evicting them.

Kansas Member Quits Postoffice Committee

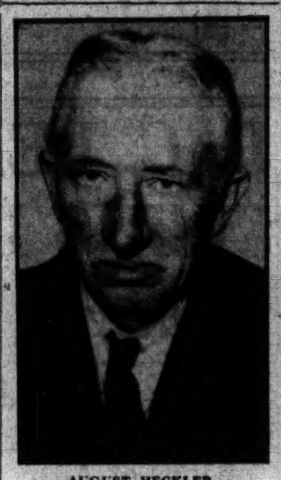
(Associated Press.)

Representative Harold McGugin (Republican), of the Third Kansas District, resigned yesterday from his assignment to the House Postoffice Committee, and the resignation was accepted by the House. McGugin's letter to Speaker Rainey, read to the House, said:

"Due to the fact that the States west of the Mississippi River received no Republican representation on the Committees on Banking and Currency and Rules, I can not and will not accept the assignment given me on the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads."

Idle Man Collapses in Cafe; Once Spurned Kin's $15,000

Had Gone Night After Night Without Sleep; Gets Job at Yard.



AUGUST HECKLER.

Week after week of sleepless nights. Day after day of walking the streets in search of employment—trying to keep awake. Afraid to relax, afraid to close his eyes for fear of arrest and imprisonment. No work, hardly enough to eat and the constant effort of forcing his mind to function.

This was the life of August Heckler, gentle-mannered, gray-haired native of Germany, who a few years ago refused a sum of $15,000, willed to him by an uncle. Instead, he turned it over to his uncle's children.

Such was Heckler's life until early yesterday. The continual grind proved too much and he collapsed in a downtown restaurant.

For more than a month, the restaurant manager said, the little old man, his shoulders bowed with the years, spent nights at a table in the rear of his establishment. He never tried to sleep, knowing regulations prohibited it. On the contrary, he just sat at the table shaking himself at intervals to stay awake.

The restaurant manager said he had proof that the aged man had not slept in months. And early yesterday, after he collapsed and a policeman had been called, he begged for another chance to "carry on." He lived in terror of being arrested for vagrancy.

Heckler's plight was called to the attention of a Post reporter. A call to the Salvation Army at 3 a. m. procured a bed.

Yesterday Heckler was given work at the municipal wood yard and promised another night's lodging. His only concern now is to find steady employment.

His story was pitiful. In broken English he said:

"I came here some time ago from Scranton, Pa. I had a good job. Then something happened. I was out of work and had no money. I walked the streets. I slept in parks, but policemen said I couldn't sleep there. They don't let you sleep in all-night restaurants. I had no place to go. I decided to stay awake. If I slept I would be arrested. I didn't want that.

"At the missions I found you must have at least a quarter before they give you a bed. I tried them all, but soon knew there was no use hoping to sleep free every night."

FEAR NOT DUCE PLAN, SMALL STATES TOLD

MacDonald Says Provision Should Be Made for Consulting Them.

London, March 23 (A.P.).—Europe's small nations need have no fear of Premier Mussolini's four-power plan for stabilizing the peace of Europe, Prime Minister MacDonald told Parliament today in reporting on his visit last week to Rome, Paris and Geneva.

The Mussolini plan, which would combine England, Italy, France and Germany in a sort of international club to preserve the peace, should be carried out within the framework of the League of Nations, Mr. MacDonald said, and provision should be made for consulting the smaller powers when their interests are directly concerned.

"Every treaty is holy," said Mr. MacDonald, "but no treaty is eternal."

He pointed out that the League of Nations covenant, while it enforces respect for treaty obligations, also provides for the revision of treaties "when conditions arise which might lead to a conflict of nations."

REDS READY TO FREE BRITISHERS ON BOND

Embassy in London Reports Agreement; Unconditional Freedom Demanded.

London, March 23 (A.P.).—Release on bail of three British subjects, employes of a British electrical firm, arrested several days ago by the Ogpu (Soviet secret police) on charges of sabotage, has been agreed to by the public prosecutor in Moscow, the Soviet embassy here said today.

The three are W. H. Thornton, John Cushny and a man named Gregory. They, three other British subjects, and a number of Russian employes of the Metropolitan-Vickers Co. were arrested after raids in Moscow and Leningrad.

It was alleged they had engaged in sabotage in electrical construction work, in which the company had been engaged for ten years.

Meanwhile, it was understood in official quarters that the British government would consider, nothing short of unconditional release without trial as a satisfactory settlement. Furthermore, it was understood that the government may consider application of an embargo on Russian imports if such settlement is not made.

Moscow, March 23 (A.P.).—A. Vishinski, state prosecutor of the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet Republic, revealed today that accusations against four British representatives of the Metro-Vickers Electrical Equipment Co. and the Russians arrested with them include giving and taking bribes as well as "intentionally" damaging the equipment of several power stations.

In these alleged crimes the accused men are charged with "acting on instructions," but whence these instructions emanated has not been revealed.

SECRETARY OF LABOR DEFENDS RELIEF IDEA

replied to them so effectively that there was rarely a retort.

She said at the outset, in answer to criticism of the proposal to pay unemployed only $1 a day, that the plan should be regarded entirely as "a relief, rather than an employment measure."

This explanation was meanwhile being emphasized by Secretary Dern at the War Department. He said the principal purpose of the plan was to drain the big cities of their hordes of jobless. He mentioned particularly, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Miss Perkins quieted fears of committee members that the dollar-a-day workers would take the place of laborers now getting regular wages. She said the work they would do was on projects that otherwise could not be undertaken for ten years.

"This is not to be regarded as an attempt to start a sweat shop labor program," she said in answer to a question from Chairman Connery, of the House Committee, who has voiced labor's objections to the proposed wage level.

"Nor can it be used to depress the wages of labor," she added. "The Federal Government should use all its influence to uphold the wage level."

Questioned by Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, Miss Perkins then gave her indorsement to this bill to establish a 30-hour work week in industry.

A committee member suggested separation of the men from their families might have a bad effect, but Miss Perkins drew a laugh by replying:

"In some cases it would be a good thing for the family to make that division."

"I don't think you need to worry over the effect on family life," she added.

Before Miss Perkins took the stand, the President's program was indorsed by R. Y. Stuart, chief of the Forest Service, who testified "the need for work on the national forests is very great."

He recommended an amendment to the bill to permit the corps to engage in protection of private as well as public forest lands.

MULLEN IS OFFERED POST ON U. S. BENCH

Collier to Get Tariff Job and Hanley Place on Radio Board.

(Associated Press.)

Parceling out many of the choice jobs still to be filled by the Roosevelt administration is due to proceed in fairly steady fashion henceforth.

President Roosevelt yesterday offered to Arthur F. Mullen, of Nebraska, his convention floor manager, an appointment to the bench on the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, Eighth District.

He sent to the Senate the nomination of James Collier, of Mississippi, former chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, to be a member of the Tariff Commission; of James H. Hanley, of Nebraska, to be a member of the Radio Commission, and of John W. Troy, of Alaska, to be Governor of Alaska.

The lineup for other high posts is beginning to take shape, although it appears likely that the choice of an Ambassador to Germany and selection of a Commissioner of Internal Revenue may be delayed for a period.

In the diplomatic field, the name of James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, is heard in speculation over both the Rome and Havana embassies. Claude Bowers, the writer, is definitely slated for Spain. Clark Howell and John Cohen, Atlanta publishers, also are regarded as certainties for high offices, probably in the Diplomatic Corps. Maj. James M. Curley, of Boston, is due for appointment in the corps.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, former member of the House from Florida and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, is in line for appointment in the State Department. Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming, is seriously considered for Treasurer of the United States.

James A. Farley, Postmaster General and national chairman, who is lining up the patronage slate for the President's decision, conferred yesterday at the White House.

Another caller there was W. Forbes Morgan, of New York, who is destined to be Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Woman Fractures Hip In Automobile Wreck

One woman was injured and two other passengers escaped serious injury last night when a car operated by James May, 1800 Jackson street northwest, was struck and turned over by an alleged hit-and-run driver at Bradley boulevard and Wilson lane, Bethesda, Md.

Mr. May and his wife escaped injury, but a passenger, Mrs. Arthur Bolt, suffered a fracture of the right hip. Montgomery County police broadcast a lookout for the escaped car.

DISTRICT BEER BILL IS VOTED BY HOUSE

but not all, were covered in committee amendments approved yesterday.

Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New York, chairman of the House District Committee, working in unison with Representatives Loring M. Black, jr., New York, and Vincent L. Palmisano, Maryland, Democrats, led the fight for the bill.

Mrs. Norton resorted to every stratagem to get action. When things were not progressing smoothly, along about midafternoon, she conferred with House leaders. Then, in so many words, she promised members a holiday today and tomorrow if they would help her get her bill through.

Opposition Attack.

The opposition attack was directed by Representative Gale H. Stalker (Republican), New York, aided by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas; Representative Malcolm C. Tarver (Democrat), Georgia, and others.

It was Representative Tarver who attempted to block the sale of beer on Federal property, particularly in Capitol restaurants. His amendment was voted down, 121 to 72.

Off the floor, Speaker Rainey said: "Since we are working on the theory that 3.2 per cent beer is not intoxicating, I don't see why we should forbid its sale in the House restaurant."

Finally Accepted.

Although the committee had an amendment, prohibiting sales to minors, it was Representative Blanton's amendment that was accepted by the House. The Texan's first proposal prohibited beer sales on Sunday. This was stricken out, and other changes made, before the amendment finally was accepted, 115 to 78.

Representative James W. Wadsworth (Republican) New York, vainly tried to attach an amendment allowing out-of-town brewers to ship cases of beer direct to District consumers, but this was defeated, 79 to 63.

Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Republican), Michigan, sought to legalize beer "curb service" by local "barbecue" stands. His amendment was overwhelmingly beaten.

Introduced by Smith.

A score of amendments were sponsored by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia, but only a few of them stuck. It was Smith who succeeded in fixing the $1,000 local license fee for brewers, and in giving the Commissioners the right to curtail or expand the number of beer licenses at will.

But he failed in an effort to have licenses run for the duration of each fiscal year, and in boosting the "on sale" license fee from $100 to $200. Previously Representative John J. O'Connor (Democrat), New York, made a futile attempt to increase the fee to $250. O'Connor sponsored the amendment prohibiting sales by felons.

Representative Palmisano's efforts to have 3.2 per cent "wine" specifically authorized was balked by Representative Frank H. Buck (Democrat), California. Buck said such wine would be nothing more than a soft drink, and asked defeat of the amendment, promising "a real wine bill" will be brought to the House later.

An amendment by Palmisano, providing that references to "alcoholic beverages" in the Sheppard act could not be construed as applying to any provision of the District beer bill, was adopted.

Representative Stalker made a fruitless effort to get the bill sent back to committee to have sales restrictions tightened. He was beaten, 141 to 51.

NEW DETROIT BANK DEFENDED AS SOUND

Can Not Fail, Says Minister, Declaring He Speaks at Roosevelt Request.

Detroit, March 23 (A.P.).—Explaining that he was speaking at the request of President Roosevelt and Secretary Woodin, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin tonight defended the General Motors-Reconstruction Finance Corporation Bank, opening here tomorrow, as a "bank that could not fail."

Police Commissioner James K. Watkins, whose attack on the $25,000,000 bank last night inspired a flood of dissenting telegrams to President Roosevelt, also spoke twice tonight, renewing his attack.

Father Coughlin's defense and the renewal of Watkins' attack came on the eve of the bank's opening, as announced today by Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors. Sloan also announced today that James McAvoy, chief of the General Motors legal staff, had been named acting president of the new bank, which will be operated by directors chosen from the General Motors organization.

This afternoon, Sloan conferred with Henry and Edsel Ford in Dearborn. No announcement was made, but it was understood that Sloan had invited the Fords to participate in capitalization of the new bank.

SENATE PROBE SEEN IN HARRIMAN DELAY

withhold action until the bank's affairs could, if possible, be straightened out. This request was acceded to by the Department of Justice.

"I acted, as I stated, within 24 hours after the restriction upon my proceedings was removed.

"The bank examiner's letter to me was delivered on December 24, 1932, though it bears an earlier date.

"In fact the request to withhold action was made to me by the chief bank examiner prior to the actual receipt of the letter. I would not, of course, have acceded to that request without the direction of the department. The facts complained of, of course, occurred prior to the making of the report."

Want Special Lawyer.

With the publication of this statement, the depositors' protective committee today renewed its demand for the appointment of a special prosecutor. William F. Walsh, attorney for the group, said the depositors felt the Federal authorities and the clearing house had failed throughout the situation to take proper safeguards in their behalf.

Walsh also expressed the view that a special prosecutor, instead of Pecora, should look into the circumstances of the delay, at the same time expressing "the highest regard" for Pecora's ability.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, forwarded the data on the matter here to Pecora today. He said "it seems an extraordinary thing for the department to order a delay in the prosecution, but there may be some reason for it that I don't know about."

Connall, Critical.

Several other senators also commented on the matter and one of them, Connally (Democrat), Texas, expressed the opinion the Department of Justice had been "almost guilty of criminal negligence."

Medalie and his aids completed their preliminary examination today and began to prepare evidence to be submitted tomorrow or early next week to the same Federal grand jury which is considering the case of Charles E. Mitchell, resigned chairman of the National City Bank, charged with evading a $600,000 income tax in 1929.

Five witnesses in the Mitchell case were heard by the grand jury today, and consideration of the case was extended to tomorrow. Mitchell, who was arrested in his Fifth avenue home Tuesday night, is at liberty under $10,000 bail pending a hearing March 29.

It was his testimony before the Senate Investigating Committee concerning his dealings in stock of the National City Bank that resulted in the investigation on which the charge against him is based.

RITCHIE AND AIDS STUDY BEER BILL

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 23.—While administration officials, headed by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and Attorney General William Preston Lane continued grappling with the proposed State-wide beer bill, the legislative machinery in both the Senate and House worked at full tilt, in view of the jam of bills, general as well as local, that are now in the files.

The Senate found itself in another protracted debate on the proposal to reduce salaries of the judiciary by 15 per cent, and the measure failed of passage for lack of a constitutional majority of fifteen. The vote was 14 to 13.

This bill, presented as part of an economy program initiated by Senator J. Alan Coad (Democrat), St. Marys County, had been debated on five separate occasions, and came up on its third reading as special order of passage. Senator Coad scored in all previous battles from the time the bill came from committee with an unfavorable report and indications pointed to final approval, until on the final roll call, Senator Webster, Calvert County, who had voted with the Coad forces on all previous occasions, switched and lined up with the opposition, who attacked the measure on constitutional grounds. There is still a chance of reviving the measure, however, under parliamentary procedure.

State Income Tax Proposed.

The House session was enlivened by a fight on the bill by Delegate Hofferbert, Baltimore, to set up a State system for unemployment insurance. The measure finally was passed by a vote of 72 to 27.

A proposal to amend the Constitution to provide for a State income tax was made by the Frederick County delegation. It provides for a referendum at the next general election.

The public service commission would be directed to investigate the gas and electric rates charged consumers in Hagerstown under a resolution by Delegate E. W. Miller. The measure states that charges in the Western Maryland City are much greater than applicable to Baltimore.

Lottery Bill Urged.

A bill by the Allegany County delegation proposes changes in existing laws relative to sale of property for delinquent taxes. The measure provides that persons who originally held title to such property should be given ample opportunity to redeem it.

Delegate Wallace, Baltimore, sponsored a bill providing for "charity sweepstakes," conducted under supervision of the Maryland Jockey Club on such races as the Preakness and Futurity at the Pimlico Track, for relief purposes from time to time. Wallace also proposed a constitutional amendment, to permit holding lotteries in the State.

COMMERCE SERVICE MERGER PROTESTED

which has been assumed by the bureau.

The bureau, incidentally, was organized under the Wilson administration, the last Democratic administration, as a measure of efficiency and economy. It represents the consolidation of the activities of the Foreign Trade Bureau of the State Department, the Statistics Bureau of the Treasury Department and the old Bureau of Manufactures of the former Department of Commerce and Labor.

The bureau has approximately 170 men in foreign countries looking after American foreign trade interests. There are approximately 1,000 American consuls scattered through the world. The duty of the bureau's representatives, it is argued by the business men, is purely to help American business, while the consuls have a diplomatic status and duties which seriously interfere with their doing so well the business of getting new business for American concerns. In addition the consuls have many duties from the burden of which the commercial attaches and the trade commissioners of the Commerce Department are entirely free.

Evidence of the efficacy of the functioning of the bureau, the protesting business men urge, is to be found in the thousands of communications and services performed for them by the bureau and its foreign agents and in the fact that a job as foreign representative of the bureau is at a premium because it means a springboard for a lucrative job in private business with one or another of the world-known American concerns.

Utility Asks High Court To Help Cut Own Rates

(Associated Press.)

The unusual happened in the Supreme Court yesterday when a corporation protested it was being deprived of constitutional rights by being required to charge higher rates than it desired.

The question came up in an appeal by the Montana Public Service Commission to set aside an order of the lower Federal courts permitting the Great Northern Utilities Co. to charge lower gas rates in Shelby, Mont., than the commission had fixed.

Francis A. Silver, counsel for the commission, asserted the Great Northern wanted to cut rates to drive its competitor, the Citizens Gas Co., out of the field.

M. S. Gunn, counsel for the Great Northern, insisted the business at Shelby was not sufficient to maintain two companies and asserted that as the mayor of the city and a number of its citizens were stockholders in the competing concern the only way his company could maintain itself was by underselling its competitor.

"No Unfair Enforcement" Of Dry Law Is Promised

(Associated Press.)

In the words of Attorney General Cummings "there will be no unfair enforcement of prohibition" during his regime.

This was the message he gave to the country yesterday through newspapermen who pressed him for his attitude toward enforcement as head of the Justice Department under which the prohibition bureau operates.

The question came up after the Attorney General had used the word "reasonable" several times in discussing his interpretation of the new beer law and his ruling that newspapers could accept advertising at once from breweries.

"I notice you keep using the word reasonable. Is that to be accepted as applying to prohibition enforcement generally?" he was asked.

"Hasn't there been reasonable enforcement always?" Mr. Cummings countered.

When it was suggested that some people thought not, the Attorney General stated tersely that "there will be no unfair enforcement."

He said there had been no determination yet as to the length of time Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director, would remain at his post, adding he had not had time to consider it. He said he had many recommendations for possible successors to the present director.

CONGRESS PASSES STATE BANK BILL

ough examination" requirement, but was unsuccessful. This condition, he said, imposed a "limitation so heavy that rediscounts to nonmember banks will be practically impossible."

Glass, along with half a dozen other Democratic and Republican senators, attacked the Adams proposal. He said the "examination" requirement was written into the bill by President Roosevelt himself. Under the Adams proposal, he argued, "thousands of insecure banks might avail themselves of the facilities of the Federal Reserve banking system, and having so done it might result in their wreckage sooner perhaps than otherwise they would be wrecked."

"Because naturally," Glass added, "I should infer that they would present their best ineligible paper—if there be such a thing on the face of the earth as the best ineligible paper—and that would strip the banks of the last vestige of secure assets, and they could not any longer function in the emergency."

Although Adams and others claimed few banks would benefit under the bill because of the length of time required for examinations, Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee told the House it would afford relief to thousands of State banks "now under a handicap."

Adams amended his proposal before it was rejected to make the examinations discretionary instead of mandatory, but the change had no effect on the overwhelming opposition.

Under the amendment added by the Senate and concurred in by the House, banks undergoing reorganization would be permitted to issue notes and debentures instead of preferred stock in States where the latter is required to carry double liability.

Another amendment approved extends the bill's provisions to Territories and the District of Columbia.

Attacks on Reconstruction Corporation lending policies and administration of the emergency banking act also were heard during the Senate debate.

AGED FATHER TRIES TO SAVE MRS. JUDD

Asks Pardon Board to Temper Justice With Mercy in Trunk Slayings.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 23 (A.P.).—A plea for "justice tempered with mercy" was made by the Rev. H. J. McKinnell today as the final witness for his daughter, Winnie Ruth Judd, who seeks to escape the gallows in the Phoenix "trunk murder" case.

The aged father, in a quavering voice, made a brief statement before the Arizona Board of Pardons and paroles. Mrs. Judd's fate rests with the board.

Mr. McKinnell decried the fact that matters other than those pertaining to the actual slaying of Agnes Anne Leroi had been presented before the body.

O. V. Willson, of Mrs. Judd's counsel, was granted permission to present a summation of evidence, after which the three board members indicated they would proceed privately in their attempt to reach a decision as to the justice of the death penalty imposed upon the blonde young woman.

Mrs. Judd is under sentence to be hanged April 14 for the murder of Mrs. Leroi. In her story to the board she said she killed both Mrs. Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson in defense of her own life on the night of October 16, 1931, in a fight in the kitchen of the women's duplex apartment here.

Evidence relating to the veracity of Mrs. Judd in matters pertaining to anything other than the actual slayings, the aged minister characterized as "cruel and wrong." The State never has charged his daughter with dismembering the body of Miss Samuelson, he said, "but it is before you," he told the board, "to be weighed in the scales of justice—justice tempered with mercy."

"If the pardon board decides clemency should be granted, it will announce its decision some time before the date set for execution. If it finds the death penalty just, it may refrain, under the law, from making any announcement, which is the ordinary procedure.

Stevens Dies

Suicide Quashes Indictment Against Famous Chicago Hotel Man.

RAYMOND W. STEVENS.

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—Raymond W. Stevens, former president of the Illinois Life Insurance Co., now in receivership, and nationally known hotel operator, was found shot to death in his home tonight apparently a suicide.

Slumped over a chair fronting a fireplace in his Highland Park mansion, the body, with a bullet wound in the head, was discovered by members of his family. Nearby lay a revolver from which one bullet had been discharged.

A son, who notified police, said Stevens had been despondent over collapse of his huge insurance and hotel enterprises.

Stevens, who was 59 years old, together with his father, James W., 80, and a brother, Ernest J., were under charges of embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the $150,000,000 life insurance company. The father, formerly chairman of the board, suffered a stroke of apoplexy only a few days ago and is said by attending physcians to be near death.

Knowledge of his son's suicide is to be kept from him.

JAIL HIT AS SCHOOL FOR U. S. CRIMINALS

Former Prison Chaplain in Kiwanis Club Speech Scores Idleness.

Classing every penal institution as a school of crime rather than an agency of reform, the Rev. Don Frank Fenn, former chaplain of the Colorado State Penitentiary, yesterday told a meeting of the Washington Kiwanis Club that "this country is trying to fight modern crime with antiquated methods."

Father Fenn, rector of the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Baltimore, addressed the meeting on "Prisons and Prison Conditions."

"Idleness is a great evil in prison," he declared. "It results in riot and disorder. Men are not kept busy and do not have to work hard. The regularity of system puts the prisoner's mind on the bum and renders him incapable of thinking for himself so long as he remains in prison. Having no constructive program in prisons, there is little chance of reform. Prisoners delight in telling other inmates of their crimes."

In outlining his prison reforms, Father Fenn urged a police force that might act in any section of the country. He condemned confining police activities to certain localities. Speedy trials and an enlargement of the parole system were also suggested.

FUGITIVE 15 YEARS KILLS SELF IN CELL

Uses Vial of Poison Carried That Long to Prevent Return to Prison.

Butte, Mont., March 23 (A.P.).—A little vial of poison, constant companion for 15 years of Harry Bushnell, escaped convict and double murder suspect, served its purpose today.

Bushnell, held here for Michigan authorities, was found dead in his cell this morning. A note in one of his socks told of his suicide plans and related how, ever since his escape from a prison camp near Jackson, Mich., in 1918, he had carried the poison with him for use when he was caught.

The suicide occurred a few hours before officers were to arrive to return Bushnell to Michigan to complete a prison term and for questioning in the slaying of Mrs. Tillie Jenkins and Vaiden Bordner, whose bodies were found in a clump of bushes near the prison camp shortly after the escape of Bushnell in July, 1918.

In his suicide note, Bushnell denied knowledge of their deaths. He previously had made verbal denial.

About 250,000 Jews served in the World War, of whom about one-quarter were volunteers.

SCOT OFFICER GIVES TREASON DEFENSE

Baillie-Stewart Confesses Sordid Love Affair to Explain Money.

London, March 23 (A.P.).—A detailed account of his relations with a German woman, "fair and about 22," was told by Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart to a court-martial today in explanation of the events which have led to his being charged with selling military information to a foreign power.

"On my honor," the young officer declared, "I never have attempted to obtain, I never have obtained, and I never have disclosed any information prejudicial to the state. There is no possible reason why I should have done so. I never have been in debt in my life."

The accused officer's story, as brought out by his counsel, appeared to be a straightforward account of a liaison with a woman to whom he was introduced by chance by a German acquaintance named Otto Waldemar Obst. The prosecution has said that Obst was a foreign agent within the meaning of the official secrets act.

The lieutenant's own statement from the stand was that he continued the liaison although he was not very fond of the woman, in the hope of getting money from her.

The prosecution contends that £90 ($311) which Baillie-Stewart received in letters from Berlin was in payment for military secrets he had revealed. The defense contention is that the money came from the woman in question, known only as "Marie Louise."

Sidewalks of Marble Planned by Namesake

Marble, N. C., March 23 (A.P.).—Sidewalks of marble in some communities may be deemed extravagance, but not here—so the town board of aldermen enacted a law that the stone be used as paving material, making the town live up to its name.

Marble is situated within the area of immense marble deposits of Cherokee County and, because of the ease with which the stone can be obtained, the aldermen believed the idea was a good one. Laying of sidewalks with marble is to begin at once.

Man Sends Reich Gold Piece As His Crisis Contribution

Anonymous Donor Gives 10-Mark Watch Fob; "Throw It in the Melting Pot for Luck," He Writes.

A 10-mark German gold piece yesterday joined the array of money and jewelry coming to President Roosevelt in the national campaign to restore gold to the Treasury.

Yesterday's contribution, from an anonymous donor in Syracuse, N. Y., was received only a few hours after it was announced that such small gifts were not needed. The announcement came after an Italian girl sent in a $5 gold piece and a gold chain.

The letter yesterday, which was addressed to "President Franklyn D. Roosevelt," said:

"Today I read of a young girl who had sent you a five-dollar gold piece as her contribution to the Nation's difficulty.

"I am inclosing my only gold piece, 10 marks (German), for when I read her letter I realized I, too, was hoarding.

"This watch fob was given to me by a friend—throw it in the melting pot for luck. Thru the depression I have lost my home and all—now late in life I must start all over again.

"With you, Mr. President, giving us a new deal, I know I will soon get work to enable me to take care of my family. May God watch over you, to bring happiness to our beloved country. "AMERICAN."

Quake Jury to Ask New Building Code

Verdict Is Not Likely to Fix Criminal Blame for Many Collapses.

Los Angeles, March 23 (A.P.).—Official indications came today from the coroner's jury holding an inquest over victims of the March 10 earthquake in southern California that no attempt will be made to fix any criminal responsibility for collapse of buildings and other damage.

"We feel," said Nels Gross, construction engineer and one of the jury of nine technical experts, "that damage and destruction was due largely to a lack of foresight in construction and to the fact that southern California communities grew so rapidly that they did not keep pace in some instances with all safety practices."

Gross said the jurors considered the earthquake damage "an act of God" and that damage in most cases was the result of ignorance in building instead of willful negligence.

Comprehensive recommendations for rigid new building codes, which will include specific suggestions to make schools "earthquake proof," will be contained in the verdict, it was said.

Three light but distinct earth tremors of a few seconds' duration each were felt here today. No material damage was reported.

OHIO RIVER FLOOD AID BEING RUSHED

Inundation Is Presaged in Lower Reaches; 12 Dead as Damages Mount.

Louisville, Ky., March 23 (A.P.).—Flood preparations were rushed along the lower reaches of the Ohio River today while on the upper stretches, where the swollen stream has been on a rampage for several days, rehabilitation work got under way.

From Cincinnati, eastward to its source the river was stationary or receding, leaving twelve deaths and extensive property damage in its wake. But from Louisville westward to its junction with the Mississippi, the Ohio was rising slowly, pressaging floods in western Kentucky, southern Indiana, Illinois and Missouri this week-end.

The light rains of last night and this morning ceased this afternoon, with fair and colder weather predicted for tonight in Kentucky and lower Indiana.

Mandamus Writ Is Denied Mooney

Court Holds Presence of Convict Not Needed in New Arguments.

San Francisco, March 23 (A.P.).—The State District Court of Appeals today denied a writ of mandamus which would have compelled San Quentin Prison officials to produce Tom Mooney in court here Saturday while his attorneys argue in favor of bringing him to trial on an old indictment charging murder as the outgrowth of the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing of 1916.

Mooney is serving a life sentence as a result of a conviction on a similar charge. In denying the writ, the appellate court said:

"It is the general rule that the defendant in a felony case should be present at arraignment and in every subsequent stage of trial. His presence, however, is not necessary at proceedings which are merely preliminary or formal and no matters affecting his guilt or innocence are presented."

Pocket of Gold Nuggets Found by Ditch Digger

Culver City, Calif., March 23 (A.P.).—Eight gold nuggets, not yet assayed but said by veteran mining men to be evidently solid gold, were found today by Henry W. Vickmeyer, Culver City resident, in a subsidiary storm drain under construction here.

His nuggets, all slightly larger than pea kernels, were taken from a quartz pocket in the side of the ditch about 4 feet from the surface. Immediately after the discovery, the ditch became the scene of a feverish gold hunt, with more than a score of persons engaged in the quest.

BILLS WOULD SLASH PRINCE GEORGES PAY

Propose Cuts in Salaries of Sheriff, State's Attorney and Others.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 23.—The eleventh-hour rush for presentation of new legislative proposals was on today. Tomorrow is the deadline under regulations, and after that no bills may be introduced in either the Senate or House except by unanimous consent.

As a result, many additional measures went into the legislative hopper today, particularly on the House side, and another big batch is expected tomorrow. Members of the Prince Georges County delegation were particularly alert in putting the finishing touches to their program and new proposals included additional economy bills by way of reducing salaries of county officials. One proposal cuts the pay of the sheriff from $2,400 to $2,100 and a like reduction as to his allowances for pay of deputies or clerical assistants. A second bill makes a net reduction of $250 in the salary of the State's attorney. Under existing law the county prosecutor is paid $1,000 for his services in connection with cases before police justices, while his regular salary is fixed at $1,500. The former stipend is reduced to $900 and latter to $1,350 under the new proposal.

A third salary bill affects police officials of the county. The police justice would be cut from $2,500 to $2,250 and his allowance for personal expenses of the office from $500 to $450. The bill provides a reduction in the pay of the police court clerk from $1,500 to $1,350; one constable at large designated as police chief from $2,100 to $1,890, but an allowance of $300 for maintenance of an automobile is provided; police sergeant from $1,800 to $1,620; other constables at large, $1,500 to $1,350.

Delegate Kent Mullikin presented a bill providing for a municipal building to house the Fire Department of Laurel. The structure would be erected on Montgomery street, and the bill authorizes a loan of $5,000 to cover construction, the interest on which would be paid out of the 2 cent tax levied for general fire department purposes.

Constables and police justices of Montgomery County would be allowed only one fee for services, where one or more charges arise out of the same incident or event.

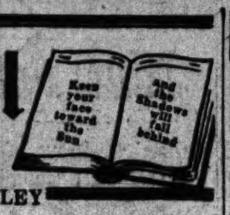
The Federal Diary



By GEORGE D. RILEY

IF the married-women-in-Government-service issue arises seriously why would not the solution put into effect by a Kansas City (Mo.) corporation be a sensible one?

The Kansas City Power & Light Co. solved the controversial problem in an unusual manner. The company, which in the past has held no prejudice against married women, announced that any women employes who became married after July 1, 1933, would be replaced. However, if they should be married prior to that time they would continue on the pay list.

Meanwhile, the company announces it will employ no more married women, giving preference to men.

MY KID BROTHER.

I got a bum kid brother,
You can never run him down
He flutters o'er the highways
And goes from town to town.

He never has much money,
While I'm always saving mine,
But the girls are always after him,
'Cause he's got a darn good line.

I'm not an ugly creature,
And I've got a sport sedan,
But when he comes to my town,
I'm just "the forgotten man."

He takes my shirts and neckties
And he borrows all my change
And then ends the mateer up
By taking all my dames.

I'd like to have a law passed
To make that gay young mut
Go to some desert island
And live alone in a hut.

GOVERNMENT employes have complained that they have been offered great bargains by fur racketeers and yet inquiry at Police Headquarters reveals the fact that nothing can be done with these men.

Here's how the game works:

A light delivery panel truck rolls up alongside a pedestrian with two men. One hails you. "Hey, buddy, got something to show you." You go over and in whispers one of the "deliverymen" opens a long cardboard box and shows you a beautiful fur neckpiece, "worth $75." Would you give $20? Well, how much money have you? The idea is you are supposed to assume the merchandise has been stolen and the racket boys are letting you in on something. They really are.

We learn from police that there are four such trucks working Washington, and if you pay $10 for a 50 cent fur, it's just too bad. The law can't touch them. They have a peddler's license and they're not violating any law.

"Wish we could do something. The district attorney has been consulted and no law is available to touch them." This is the police statement.

Dr. H. V. Harlan, barley specialist, Agriculture, says most parts of the United States have small opportunity to grow malting barleys profitably, though certain favored localities may do so, speaking of sales prospects in view of the beer situation. Even if the country used as much barley for malting out of the 1933 crop as it did in 1917, the amount absorbed would be less than a quarter of the average annual barley production.

MISTRIAL IS ASKED BY BALL'S COUNSEL

Court Withholds Decision on Motion for Former County Treasurer.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy withheld decision on motion for a mistrial offered by defense counsel Capt. Crandal Mackey in the case of E. Wade Ball, former treasurer of Arlington County, Va., yesterday. The motion was based on the fact that the audit which had been in the hands of the jury during the day contained a letter commenting on the audit by State Auditor of Public Accounts T. Coleman Andrews addressed to County Manager Roy S. Braden.

Ball is on trial on an indictment charging failure to turn over county funds totaling $515,959.99.

With the jury returning to their seats following a discussion on the motion for a mistrial, the court admonished them to disregard any data other than that properly introduced.

This came at the conclusion of testimony of Elmer Newell, former member of the staff of State auditors, showing from records of Ball's books as of July 1, 1930, a balance of $314,046.93. This figure was branded by defense counsel at Wednesday's session as an arbitrary one.

Newell showed, after question by Assistant Attorney General Collins Denny, jr., that Ball was accountable to the county for $602,321.51 as of February 26, 1932, while the alleged shortage is $515,959.99, the difference, according to the audit, being the bonds and funds on hand at the time of his resignation, $86,361.52.

Counsel for the State, to clarify the minds of the jurors, explained that of the fees collected by the former treasurer, approximately $35,000 a year, he was permitted by law to expend certain sums for the operation of his office and for his own salary to deduct not more than $7,000. The remainder is turned over to the State, with two-thirds being returned to the county for county purposes, one-third going to the State.

Frank L. Ball, counsel for the defendant, strongly objected to the character of examination, claiming that the defense had been refused papers and other data collected by the Commonwealth. Newell, on being questioned by Denny, stated that at no time had he refused to show work sheets or other data to F. L. Worcester, auditor employed by the defense, and, in fact, also had answered many questions asked by Mr. Ball himself. At this point, while the jury was out of the courtroom, Mr. Ball demanded that the Commonwealth turn over to the defense all checks in its possession. Mr. Denny explained to the court that to do so would cause much delay.

Examination by the State of Newell was concluded with adjournment of court. It is expected that E. B. Jordon, another State auditor, will take the stand with opening of court today.

GROVETON SCHOOL PROGRAM FOUGHT

Fairfax Citizens Group Will Battle Creation of New Center.

A determined fight is being made by some of the citizens of Mount Vernon Magisterial District of Fairfax County against the establishment of an elementary school center at Groveton, on the Washington-Richmond highway.

The controversy arose last month, when the county school board included an item in its budget for next year to enlarge the Groveton School. This would do away with the present school at Woodlawn and Snowden. The enlargement at Groveton was made necessary when the elementary school at Lee-Jackson was made a high school center, serving both Falls Church and Mount Vernon Districts. The enlargement of the Groveton School, according to the school board members, was for the purpose of economy and in an effort to increase the efficiency of elementary school education in that section.

The opposition to the Groveton School Center appears to be on the grounds that it is situated on the much-traveled Washington-Richmond highway. A meeting was held Wednesday evening in the Snowden School to discuss the question, and when Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson attempted to obtain recommendations as to a more suitable site, that was accessible and centrally located with regard to population, none were forthcoming. He then suggested that a committee be appointed to confer with the school board at its meeting April 4 and make its recommendations as to a more suitable site. The committee was advised to make a study of possible locations.

Another meeting will be held in the Woodlawn School tomorrow night, to give the citizens of that community an opportunity to express their views on the question.

Destitute Alexandrians Are Given Quick Relief

The appeal published yesterday for the family in Alexandria found in destitute circumstances with a newborn infant and no clothing, fuel, water or food, brought forth generous response. Police Sergt. George Everly had secured a mattress for the bed, warm covering, clothing, had the water turned on and fuel and food in the house within an hour after receiving the report by a neighbor of the family.

Offers of assistance came from all sources, and early yesterday morning a man approached a Washington policeman, after reading the story in The Post and handed him a dollar to help along. The Alexandria representative of The Post carried the dollar to Sergt. Everly for the family in question.

Cabman and Girl Held In Riverdale Robbery

Two persons were arrested yesterday in Baltimore for Prince Georges County authorities in connection with the robbery of a Sanitary grocery store in Riverdale, Md., Monday. They were a Washington taxicab driver, who gave his name as Daniel Koontz, and a 16-year-old girl, who said she was his wife.

They were arrested as the result of the alertness of a Montgomery County colored resident, Joseph Lee, who was working in the woods of the Manor Club, near Norbeck, Md., Wednesday when he saw a taxicab containing three men and a woman stop and throw out a heavy safe. He slipped around to where he could read the license tags and then called Montgomery County police at Rockville, who sent out a lookout.

Montgomery Bank Opening Forecast

Ramsdell Says Reorganization Plan Has Been Approved by U. S.

Reopening of the Montgomery County National Bank at Rockville, Md., with no restriction on withdrawals within two weeks was forecast yesterday by Paul C. Ramedell, vice president of the bank. The bank failed to reopen after the Maryland banking holiday except for limited business.

Mr. Ramsdell announced that a plan of reorganization which is being perfected has been approved by Federal officials and by officers of the bank and assurances have been received that a license to open will be forthcoming when the plan is completed. He said that no restrictions will be placed on withdrawals of funds deposited in the bank prior to the bank holiday when it reopens.

The Montgomery County National Bank is the only Montgomery County bank which failed to reopen after the banking holidays. Eight county banks are operating without restrictions and two are on a 2 per cent withdrawal basis.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT nominated James H. Hanley, an attorney, of Omaha, Nebr., to succeed Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, who resigned last July, on the Federal Radio Commission. The term is until February 23, 1936.

Mr. Hanley, who has been associated with Arthur F. Mullen, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has been prominent in Democratic circles in Omaha for the last twenty years. He is about 50 years of age. He was secretary to the late Representative Lobeck, of Nebraska, for several years prior to 1920.

During the early days of prohibition, Mr. Hanley served as Federal prohibition director of Nebraska. He has not had any previous radio experience. It is understood that Senator Dill may object to the appointment.

THE Senate and the House of Representatives offer a wealth of new radio personalities since there are so many new members in each of the law-making bodies.

Vice President Garner does not speak over the radio excessively, nevertheless the radio listeners may expect to hear from him at intervals.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey is a radio devotee and it is expected he will be heard repeatedly. He recently spoke for half an hour over a national network, giving an explanation of what the Congress was endeavoring to accomplish.

Also Speaker Rainey has cooperated with the broadcasters to the extent of allowing them access to the House of Representatives for the purpose of broadcasting the debate and voting on several measures, notably the emergency banking legislation and the beer bill.

THE two new women members of the House, Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana, and Kathryn O'Laughlin, of Kansas, will be prizes the broadcasters will surely go after.

Senator Huey Long, although he was in Congress for several months before March 4, has evidently just begun to get into his radio stride since the new administration came in. Thus far he has been heard over the air from Washington only a few times.

Others among the new solons who are expected to pay frequent visits to the broadcasting stations are Senators William Gibbs McAdoo, Edward P. Costigan, Augustine Lonergan, Louis R. Murphy, George McGill, Bennett C. Clark, Patrick A. McCarren, Fred H. Brown, Elbert D. Thomas, Homer T. Bone, Matthew M. Neely and Robert F. Reynolds.

In addition, there will be many Assistant Secretaries, the "Brain Trust," new heads of bureaus and Government departments, who will gather around the microphones.

The ninety-fifth running of the Grand National, the historic and hazardous steeplechase, will be described for American listeners over a network, including WRC, direct from the famous course at Aintree, near Liverpool, England.

The running account of the race, description of the crowds and sidelights of the historic event, will be radioed across the Atlantic at 10 o'clock this morning. R. C. Lyle, British sports announcer, who has been heard a number of times before from Great Britain, will describe the race.

JOE COOK, formerly of Evansville, Ind., comedian, will appear with his fellow Hoosier, Ed Hill, over WJSV at 9:30 o'clock tonight. During an informal conversation Joe will relate for the first time the background of the episode which was the turning point in his career and later was to bring him into the headlines.

Cook began his theatrical career as a juggler. Later he developed the famous one-man vaudeville show. In recent years he has been starred in Broadway musical shows such as "Rain or Shine" and "Fine and Dandy."

Jack Dempsey will be the central figure in a new series of dramatic script programs to be broadcast over the Columbia network, including WJSV, every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. Dempsey will act his own role in the series, which is to be entitled "Jack Dempsey's Gymnasium."

Zelma O'Neal, musical comedy star, and James Melton, tenor, will be guests on the Chevrolet program (WRC, 10 o'clock) tonight.

PRINCIPAL speeches at a protest meeting to be held under the auspices of the American Jewish Conference will be broadcast over both national chains on Monday night. The meeting has been called in resentment of the treatment of Jews in Germany under the Nazi regime of Chancellor Adolph Hitler.

Octavus Roy Cohen, author of five plays, 45 or more screen scripts, is said never to have seen a stage show of his, nor witnessed any of his movies. Only the fact that his appearance, at the first night of the Townsend Murder Mystery, was specified in the contract he signed, kept him from disappearing before the premiere of his first radio serial.

Movie stars and executives of the screen world will be heard on the air when the Hollywood premiere of "King Kong" is broadcast tonight (WRC, 11:30 o'clock). Among them will be Joel McCrea, Fay Wray, Bruce Cabot, Ernest Schoedsack, director, and Frank Reicher.

"Triple Bar X Days and Nights," featuring Carson Robison and his buckaroos, will be heard over WJSV, beginning at 8:30 o'clock tonight. This half hour was formerly occupied by the March of Time, which was concluded last Friday night. The new show will be a combination of dramatic script and cowboy music.

PROTESTANTS and Jews will join with Roman Catholics in a world-wide program on Sunday, April 2, marking the beginning of the Holy Year decreed by Pope Pius XI to "reconsecrate the entire world to a renewed faith." President Roosevelt is expected to address the mass meeting, which will be held in the Radio City Music Hall, from the White House.

Other speakers on the American program will be Cardinal Hayes, Rabbi Alexander Lyons, the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Singin' Sam's accompanist during his visit to the Earle Theater, which begins today, is "Robbie" Robinson, who was one of the cowriters of "Margie" and is an old friend of the basso.

At a banquet broadcast over WOR, honors were divided when the unveiling of a statue, part of the ceremonies, occurred.

The lifted veil exposed, besides the statue, four radio engineers and two announcers.

Furman Students Declare Social Relations Are Not Demoralizing.

Greenville, S. C., March 23 (A.P.). Furman University students at a mass meeting here today loudly denounced rules announced yesterday forbidding "social relations" between Furman and Greenville Woman's College students on the former's campus during class hours, chapel period and between classes.

Hundreds jammed the chapel building to hear speeches and adopt a resolution opposing the rules.

Speakers said the rules were instigated by Furman officials, who had complained that talking with the young women was "demoralizing the scholarly atmosphere" of the campus and preventing students from studying.

MR. MATSUOKA'S VISIT.

Mr. Matsuoka, the gifted spokesman of Japan, is about to visit Washington to convince President Roosevelt that when Japan breaks treaties it acts in good faith.

One of the first places seized by Japan in its invasion of Manchuria was the port of Hulutao, which the Chinese were developing by contract with a Dutch concern. Hulutao is a capacious harbor, free of ice all the year, and capable of containing the entire Japanese fleet. It is a better harbor than Dairen, and has good railroad connections. The threat of a diversion of commerce from Dairen to Hulutao made it desirable to capture Hulutao.

It is now reported that the bogus state of Manchukuo is to begin building warships and the creation of a naval base at Hulutao. These warships will be in fact additions to the Japanese navy, and the naval base will be located on the threshold of China.

If the assurances of Japan could be depended upon, it might be well for President Roosevelt to suggest to Mr. Matsuoka that the parties to the Washington and London naval treaties would welcome an assurance from Japan that it does not intend to violate those treaties by building warships beyond its treaty quota, and concealing the process by pretending that these ships belong to Manchukuo and not to Japan. Unfortunately, however, such an assurance from Japan would be subject to the same doubt that attaches to Japan's signature to the nine-power treaty and the Kellogg pact. A country that violates treaties finds it extremely difficult to obtain credit for good faith thereafter, and nations dealing with it usually take steps to protect their interests on the assumption that there will be another breach of faith.

Mr. Matsuoka, after walking out of the council of the League of Nations at Geneva, visited The Hague, where he is said to have negotiated with the Dutch contracting concern to continue the work of developing the port of Hulutao, Japan's new naval base.

The creation of an addition to Japan's navy under the pretext that it is a fleet belonging to the "independent" state of Manchukuo would call for immediate protest by all signatories to the Washington and London naval treaties. The parties to the Washington treaty are Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and the United States. The parties to the London treaty are Great Britain, Japan and the United States. These treaties fix the relative size and strength of the principal fleets of the world, and are the first definite steps ever taken by the nations in the direction of reduction and limitation of armaments. The engagements are of the most important character, constituting the only restraint against naval rivalry and consequent danger of war.

The rupture of these treaties by Japan would instantly require united defensive action by other powers. They have already joined in refusing to recognize the bogus state of Manchukuo. They are engaged in examining means of making practical application of the principle of nonrecognition. The denial of war material to Japan and Manchukuo is to be expected, although one of the objects of Mr. Matsuoka's missionary visit to Washington is to persuade President Roosevelt to make the interests of munitions sellers paramount to the interests and peace of the United States.

A few plain words from President Roosevelt to the emissary of Japan at this juncture may help to prevent the development of events tending toward war.

IMPRACTICAL FOREST JOBS.

Witnesses before the joint session of House and Senate labor committees brought out some of the serious difficulties that are being encountered in the attempt to use cheap labor in reforestation work. Most of the national forests are in the West, while most of the unemployment is in the East. R. Y. Stuart, chief of the Forest Service, told the committee that the Government owns 161,000,000 acres of forest west of the Mississippi, but only 7,000,000 east of the great river.

If an attempt were made to recruit 250,000 men where forest work is available, only sectional relief would be afforded. The great eastern cities would be penalized because their unemployed would have no opportunity to share in the forest work, and because funds that are now available for public buildings would be diverted from use for that purpose to finance the reforestation program.

Some thought has doubtless been given to transportation of unemployed men at Government expense to the forest areas, but such a program would be expensive as well as unsatisfactory. Only men in the most desperate circumstances would travel across the continent to work for $1 per day and subsistence. If they did so it would take them several months to earn enough to pay their way back, and they would become virtual peons in the forest camps. Contacts with their former employers would be broken and their chances of returning to work in their previous occupations would disappear.

To overcome this difficulty Mr. Stuart suggests that the bill be amended so as to allow the Government to use the forest conservation gangs on private land. A co-operative arrangement between the Government and private land owners, it is suggested, would permit the employment of large crews in the East where national forests are meager. Few land owners are in a position to develop forest property at this time. The Government would be able to contract with them only on the most liberal terms. This might mean that the Government would use the unemployed for the benefit of large land owners. Since the conservation corps would be paid out of the Federal Treasury and their wages would be at a bare subsistence level, a storm of protest would be certain to ensue. The Government would be charged with exploiting the unemployed for the benefit of great landlords. There is a vast difference between giving men a chance to earn their bread and butter and using their labor at low wages for the benefit of private individuals.

TARIFF BARGAINING.

Reports that President Roosevelt will attempt to negotiate reciprocal tariff agreements with other countries arouses no enthusiasm. Even those economists who are committed to a low tariff policy recognize the almost insuperable difficulties in the way of important reciprocal agreements. After making a study of American commercial policies from the beginning of the Republic the Tariff Commission concluded a few years ago that the "guiding principle in the commercial treaty-making policy of the United States has been that of bargaining between individual nations on the basis of reciprocal and progressive giving of favor for favor and concession for concession." Yet in all the time that Uncle Sam pursued that policy no reciprocal agreement of any great importance was concluded by the Government.

In 1922 the United States gave up the practice of bargaining for tariff concessions and committed itself to a policy of equal treatment for all countries. The attempts to bargain with other countries were never successful. Almost invariably the few reciprocal agreements that were entered into gave other nations greater advantage than they gave to the United States. Only those agreements which have been founded upon political ties, such as the reciprocity treaty with Hawaii before that country was annexed to the United States, and the agreement with Cuba, have been considered worthy of preservation. The present plan to return to reciprocity gives promise of very little in the way of actual stimulation to trade, but it carries ominous forebodings of strained foreign relations and widespread unrest among American producers who may be injured by concessions to foreigners.

Reports from the White House indicate that President Roosevelt has chosen the so-called argol agreements under the tariff act of 1897 as the model for his proposed reciprocal treaties. These treaties were of a minor nature. The reductions of duty were small and the items involved were not of much importance commercially. Increased imports of argols, or wine leaves, and sparkling wines from the reciprocity countries was the chief result. In most cases the only benefit the United States received was continuation of most-favored-nation treatment, to which this country was entitled under prior arrangements. Congress considered these treaties of such minor importance that they were all terminated in 1909.

Most of the negotiations of a reciprocal character with other countries have failed because of the refusal of the Senate to ratify the treaties or of both houses to approve the necessary tariff changes. Virtually all of the non-competitive items in American commerce are on the free list. Obviously, they can not be used for bargaining. If bargaining is to be indulged in some protected industries must suffer. Although Congress has readily approved the idea of reciprocal agreements in principle, the industries selected for destruction have been able, in most cases, to prevent the application of that principle.

President Roosevelt apparently hopes to preclude this difficulty by obtaining consent of the Senate in advance to treaties he might make. It is doubtful whether Congress will give him such authority. A congressman voting for such a bill would sign his political death warrant if the resulting agreements should work to the disadvantage of industries in his home State. The Democratic tariff bill which President Hoover vetoed two years ago provided that reciprocal agreements should be submitted to Congress and should not become effective until approved by that body.

Another difficulty arises from the fact that a new tariff act must be passed before the President could begin bargaining. It would require minimum and maximum rates to be applied to various countries at the discretion of the President, or some other method by which pressure could be brought to bear upon foreign governments for bargaining purposes. If the lower rates were put into effect at all, they would have to be granted to all countries having most-favored-nation treaties with the United States. The result would be a series of unequal tariff barriers applicable to different countries, thus leading to confusion and widespread dissatisfaction both within and without the United States.

The hurdles that must be cleared before the United States can again embark upon reciprocal tariff bargaining are so numerous that industry can put aside its fears for the present.

DISTRICT BEER BILL.

The House rushed through the District beer bill yesterday, making numerous amendments on the floor. The scope of the bill is not exactly clear. Wine may or may not be legalized. It is clear, however, that the House wishes to permit the sale of beer in the Capitol and the Federal buildings, and that beer shall be sold on Sunday.

The price of beer in the District may be pretty high. A Federal tax of $5 a barrel and a District tax of $1 may make it necessary to charge 10 cents for a moderate-sized glass. Home brewers who are already making beer with a stronger kick may not care to patronize the new beverage. Sale of beer to minors is prohibited by the House bill, although the beer is nonintoxicating in law if not in fact.

The Senate will now consider the District beer bill, with the aid and comfort of a radio audience. Every winged word in the hearings will be broadcast from the committee room. The nation may pause in its labors and hold its breath, if it wishes, while listening in on the momentous discussion.

The House votes for Government competition against private industry in the beer business, but congressmen and Federal workers are entitled to squash their thirst.

The country could afford to wait for news about bank holidays and war, but it must have a radio report of the Senate hearing on the District beer bill, round by round.

There is some doubt as to whether Speaker Rainey proposes a farm mortgage bond issue of $3,000,000,000 or $30,000,000,000, but it makes no difference.

If any one attempts to establish a monopoly in pretzels, shoot him on the spot.

CANADIAN BANKS AND OURS

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Canadian bank soundness has deeply impressed the people of the United States. Though Canada suffers from depression precisely as we do there have been no bank failures.

The last bank failure in Canada was in 1923. The last one before that was in 1914. Only two failures in more than twenty years! And there may be—though we do not guarantee this—no more. Perhaps those two failures removed the last weak possibilities.

In the last four years more than 5,000 banks in the United States have closed.

Why this contrast between Canadian and American banks? It should be worth looking into.

Americans jump to the conclusion that Canadian banking law must be more stringent than ours.

But this turns out to be not true. Canada has far less banking law than we have in the United States and her banks are given far more latitude than ours. In Canada, as in England, the soundness of banks is not secured by barbed wire fences of laws.

The bankers, not the law, run the banks of Canada, as they do also in England. Yet the English and Canadian banks are not failing.

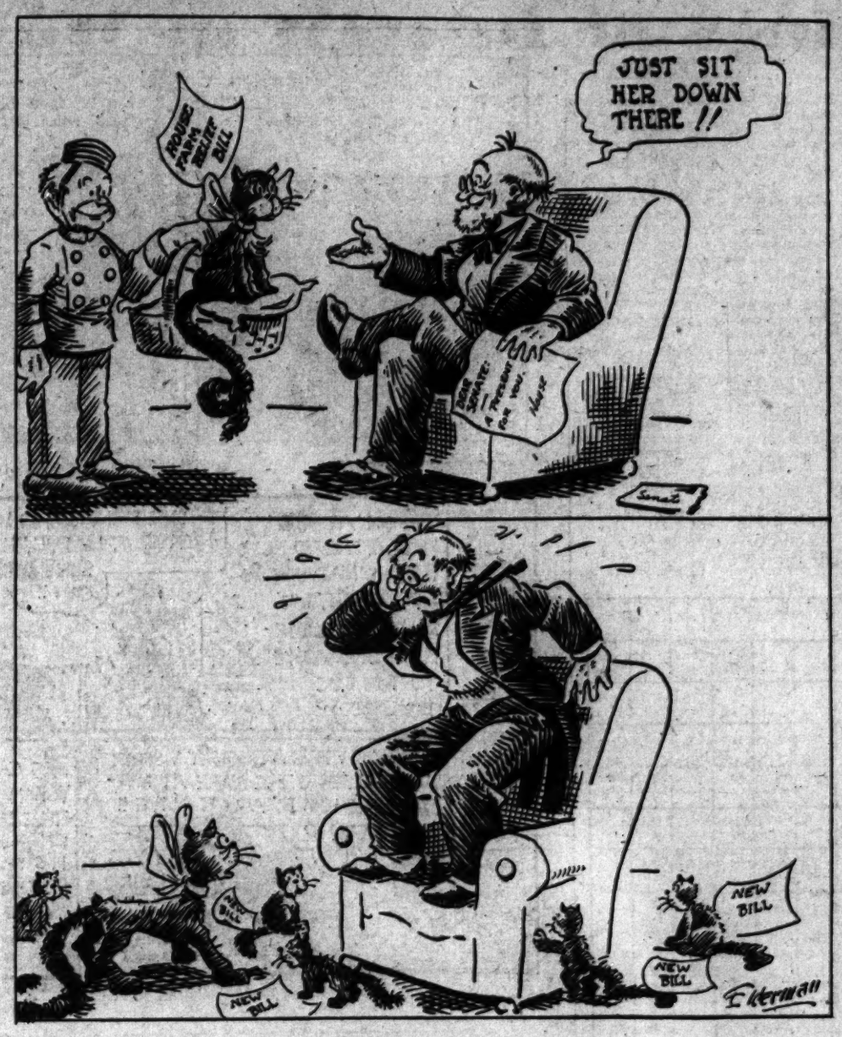
It is astonishing to learn how much the banks of Canada are left to their own judgment. In Canada there is not even a statutory specification of the amount of reserve a bank must keep. The bank itself decides how much. There is no such restriction on the granting of loans as hedges in our American national banks. The bankers are free.

How, then, are these Canadian banks kept safe without legal walls and fences, moats and hedges, and chevaux de frise of specifications and prohibitions?

It is very simple. It is done at the beginning.

Shoestring banks, fair weather banks, are not permitted to start in Canada. There are no state banks. Banks are chartered only by the dominion. A bank wins a charter only when backed by strong men with ample resources for the business. Is the dominion strict? It is strict at this point, where strictness is all important, and if observed here means less necessity for strictness thereafter.

There are only ten banks in Canada. They do the banking business of the dominion through 4,000 branches. Thus widespread, no Canadian bank has all its eggs in one basket, as happens so frequently, and fatally, with the little banks in the United States.



Another Surplus.

POST HASTE.

Good morning! Have you been proposed for District Commissioner yet?

The prospect of a bill introduced by a Robinson passing the Senate depends on which three letters follow his name—Ark. or Ind.

Encouraged by his extermination of aquatic cripples in Congress, Senator Norris now proposes to make dead ducks of the faculty and entire student body of the Electoral College.

Ein stein and cherry blossoms are assured for Easter—even if cherry bounce and jack roses are still relatively distant and disputed theories.

The United States occasionally says au revoir to Democracy, but Germany bids farewell to democracy.

Farm prices are to be raised, mortgages and interest reduced, poor land leased by the Government and crop loans advanced. If the farmer can think of anything else now is the time to ask for it.

"Prof. Piccard planning two ascensions." A true conservationist would provide for stratosphere trips one at a time.

This is an alleged age of reason, so don't hold out on that job too long. Even Babe Ruth compromised on an addition of cigarette money.

It is typical of the congressional attitude that it pours beer ad lib over the States and then grudgingly considers permitting the District to partake.

Fate plays April 7 for a repeater, but this time it is foreordained that she shall roll a natural.

Even though Secretary Perkins confers with labor chiefs regarding legislation on April Fools' day we trust she will admit nothing as fantastic as the farm leaders unloaded on Secretary Wallace.

General Motors is again on the Detroit market with a new-model bank ahead of Henry Ford.

It is a close race between Prexy Butler and Rabbi Wise as to which can think up most ways to get Uncle Sam mixed up in Europe's troubles.

It might be noted just as a matter of record, that Senator Borah has come out in favor, yes, in favor, of the arms embargo resolution.

Washington's revenue from beer at $1 a barrel is figured at $1,000 a day. A 1,000-barrel capacity until we get in practice seems boasting a bit.

SERVICE.

To prove their wisdom and their strength
They builded pyramids of old,
But long ere time had run its length
The things were stark and still and cold.

To God they raised both tower and spire,
And lavished on them wealth and skill,
Lit adoration's incense fire,
But round the steps are beggars still.

By tedious toil the stones were piled,
At frightful cost were temples made,
Yet many a mother of a child
Looks out on life and is afraid.

I wandered through the ruins grim
And in my mind the fancy ran
That God's best love must go to him
Who labors for his fellow-man.

A Brief Outline of Teachings That Will Make the Boy a Man

By ROBERT QUILLEN

TEACH him to be unafraid. Fear has enslaved mankind since the beginning. It is a product of ignorance. Take away the ignorance and the fear is gone—for in this matter, as in all others, the truth makes men free. If the boy is afraid to fight a bully, to speak in public, to swim, or to do any other thing that fearless men do, see that he does it many times until familiarity has robbed it of its terrors. At any cost of time or effort, develop in him the habit of being unafraid; for the measure of his courage will be the measure of his manhood and the gauge of his success. If you protect him too well, you will save his life by sacrificing all that makes life worth while.

Teach him to respect himself. If criticism or ridicule of his blunders, his wrong-doing or his physical imperfections causes him to feel ashamed, he will think himself inferior to others and will end his days serving men who have less native ability. Praise him when praise is due, and at any cost protect him from the blight of shame.

Teach him the social tricks and graces of his time and place. In Rome he must do as the Romans do or walk alone. See that he learns to play baseball and football, tennis and golf. Let him play bridge and learn to dance. He may be a "dub" at all of these exercises, but some experience of them will give him poise and deliver him from the curse of queerness that handicaps those who are unlike the majority.

Teach him to speak the truth. A lie is the weapon of a rogue or a weakling. If he speaks only the truth, he will have the self-confidence of one who knows there is no crack in his armor.

Teach him to avoid indecent stories. They are bits of filth that will lodge in his brain for life. You would warn him against dirt that would cling to his skin for years. Do as much for his mind.

Teach him pride in honor—the fine high pride that scorns to cheat as it scorns the cheater.

And, finally, teach him that self-control is the foundation of decency and all excess the way of the beast.

Teach him this much, together with faith in God and good manners, and you need have no fear that the schools or the world will corrupt him.

POLITICAL COMMENT

In the Blood.

Minneapolis Journal.

Another Roosevelt has been named Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Don't jump at conclusions, however, just because that same post has been filled by Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt, and both men afterward were elected to the Presidency.

It does not always follow. Henry L. Roosevelt is the fifth of the name to be appointed to this same undersecretaryship. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., held the position, and so did another of the line at an earlier day. Only two of the five have attained to the Presidency, so far.

No Cause for Worry Now.

Kansas City Star.

The Democratic party still is in debt by more than $751,000 and has a bank balance of but little more than $57,000. But never mind. Despite the ups and downs of the economic level in the meantime, the outlook for the party and its finances is a bit more encouraging than it was at this date four years ago. So there can be a philosophical, almost a complacent, attitude toward the whole matter of party debts. Somehow a way will be found and the skies will clear.

Three American Classes.

Charleston News and Courier.

The Americans are divided into three classes, the taxpayers, the people who live off the taxpayers and the unemployed. So much of what the taxpayers earn or have earned goes to the officeholders that they have not enough left to employ the unemployed; therefore the unemployed may take what the officeholders leave and the taxpayers will then be unemployed.

Lobby Holiday.

Chicago News.

Now is the time for lobbies opposed to Government economy to take a long holiday.

Glorious, if It All Happens.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

In securing from Congress the power which he asked to balance the budget President Roosevelt has laid the foundation for the great economic reform which he promised in his campaign. Exercising, as he will, the authority granted him in the economy bill, which both houses of Congress have now enacted, he will do what Congress has not been able, or willing to do—balance the Government's outgo with its income. The swelling deficit will be wiped out by the discontinuance of extravagant expenditures and the abolition of overlapping and superfluous offices; the necessity for further excessive increase of taxation will be removed, and even the lowering of present taxation ultimately will be made possible.

Steam Pressure at Washington.

Detroit News.

Congress has demonstrated clearly, in less than two weeks, that with the same party controlling both houses, and the leaders exerting pressure, important legislation can be enacted in a brief time.

The House, under its rules, has not found legislation difficult in recent years. Most of its work is done in committees; debate on the floor is limited. But the Senate loves to talk, and finds it hard to come to a final vote on any bill, except under a unanimous consent agreement to which no senator with a speech in his system is eager to agree. In this special session the Democratic leaders appear to have been able to impose a large measure of silence on members of their own party, and since there is thus no contradiction or argument over Republican utterances, the forensic ambitions of the opposition are limited. Governing all, of both parties, is the knowledge that the country wants action, not oratory. There is nothing so discouraging to a senator as the belief that his audience is inattentive and impatient.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Patriot Takes Stock of U. S. and Finds Overwhelming Assets—"Forward," His Battle Cry.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In these days when hysteria threatens and fear and distrust prevail, people ofttimes fail to turn to their safest refuge, the taking of stock in assets. With our many difficulties from unemployment, lack of financial stability, increased unrest both from real and imaginary troubles, the people need to turn and reflect upon their real assets and to determine as to whether these do not by far overbalance all liabilities. In such matters, intangibles as well as physical assets are to be considered.

First, we have a system of government, both constitutional and legislative, that has stood the test of shock both from within and without. The area of the country has increased more than ten-fold, and the population more than thirty-fold, and yet the fundamental law—the Constitution—except in three minor instances, has remained unchanged.

So our most priceless intangible asset is our near immutable basic law and our system of jurisprudence founded thereon. To these intangibles may be added a spirit of patriotism and love of country that has been and remains a purely American trait; willingness to make sacrifice for our own and other peoples; patience and forbearance in times of stress and strain, and ready adaptation to whatever remedies may serve to relieve against existing or threatened ills, even to the sacrifice of present comforts or personal fortune. These are valued intangibles, and should be taken into account in any determination of our country's real assets.

As to physical assets, who would dare to make catalogue? Three and three-fourths million square miles of earth's surface, with no extremes of temperature; with no less than 15,000 miles of ocean frontage, plus expansive bays, harbors and inlets; with unmeasured streams and lakes for power and navigation; with limitless forests, original and reproduced; with untold deposits of ores and minerals, oils and gases; with unmeasured areas of natural and produced soils; with forest and waters for game and fish, areas for beauty and utility, all awaiting the handiwork and necessities of man. And to these may be added improved highways and waterways, countless cities, towering spires and structures, manifold equipment for transportation, stores and reserves of food, and clothing, and fuel; places of learning, libraries, churches, institutions for health, morals and recreation, all and other things unnamed making up in volume and value, beyond possible estimation, the tangible assets of our people.

What then of the other list, our liabilities? At the head of this list, as properly named by our new President in his inaugural address, is fear, blind, unreasoning fear. Fear of something that has happened and can not be recalled, or of something that may not now exist, or some event which may never happen. Next comes lack of confidence in our Government and in our public and private institutions, this in the face of recorded and repeated history that in all our past difficulties the better things have triumphed and that the fount and well springs of our national life have never been defiled. Then, there is discontent, chronic complaining, factional strife in lesser or larger degree, and occasional railing against the existing order of things.

But what of these? They will in the present and in the future, as they have in the past, fade and disappear before the greater aggregation of our countless and ever increasing national assets. Forward, then, should be the battle word of all Americans!

Gen. Fuller, Commandant, Thanks The Post for Supporting Marine Corps.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I write to express on behalf of the Marine Corps our appreciation of the splendid support that has been given the corps in the editorial columns of The Washington Post.

The Marine Corps had its beginning along with the beginning of our country. The Marine Corps is a part of the naval establishment and as such is an essential part of our national defense, and support that has been given the corps has been in the interest of the national defense.

The officers and men of the Marine Corps shall always use their best endeavors to keep the corps worthy of the confidence our country has placed in it.

B. H. FULLER,

Hopes Physicians' Fees Will Be Readjusted to Fit the Times.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The salaries of Government workers have been drastically cut. Many stocks and securities are not paying dividends, and in consequence a large number of our fellow citizens are finding it difficult to meet their financial obligations. Apartment rents have been lowered, commodity prices have fallen materially, and there has been a decided downward trend in the price of almost everything, and yet, notwithstanding this, some physicians in Washington are still exacting war-time fees for their professional services. Why is this? Isn't it about time for them to fall into line and show a little consideration for their patients?

Many doctors attend patients from whom no fees are expected, and they are entitled to great credit for doing so. But in other cases some patients are overcharged to offset free service to others.

It seems to me the medical profession would do well to give this matter a little serious thought.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: If I could only drop off at Ogden with this letter and fly the rest of the way home. Three days on the train seem so long—with only one hour gone so far.

What a long, exciting day my Monday has been! Before dawn the courthouse (opposite my window) was ablaze with light. "Being cleaned for me," I thought. At 5 o'clock I got up and rehearsed my lines again. By 8, telegrams commenced coming up—messages from the girls who have left. "So happy for you today," "Love and wishes for a very happy future," &c. Arrived also four orchids. I remember my shock at the first divorce bouquet I saw. No shock any more. But I only wore a single gardenia, from Aileen.

At 10:30 (my case was set for 10:40) she and I went down to the lobby, where my attorney and my witness were waiting to escort us over to the courthouse.

In the inner chamber was the judge (at that moment I didn't see how I could ever have called him Judgie two days ago at a tea party), the clerk, the four of us and Reggie's attorney. My watch said just 10:40. My witness and I raised our right hands and were sworn to give true evidence.

"This is the time set for Case No...., &c.," the judge's voice "....ready on the part of the plaintiff.... the defendant?"

Mr. Sadler took the big black chair and testified that he had seen me in Reno every day for forty-two days.

"Mrs. Brown, now will you sit in that chair?"

"State your name," began my lawyer.

"How long have you resided in Reno?" "Did you come to Reno with the intention of making this your permanent residence?" "Are you still of the same intention?" (Heavens, my trunk had already gone!)

I kept repeating "yes." My lawyer saw that I was nervous and he hardly made me talk at all. I just "yessed" and "noed" my way through.

Then came the undoing words: "* * * granted for the plaintiff against the defendant, dissolving the bonds of matrimony * * * the status of unmarried persons."

Silence fell. That's all, Mrs. Brown." My watch said 10:43. As we shook hands afterward, "Judgie" promised to come in to say good-by at tea time. One farewell postponed!

At 3 o'clock I went to Mr. Stevens' office, gave him a check and, lo! he handed me my divorce, flanked with strips of pink satin ribbon and stamped with beautiful, shiny gold seals. Our good-bys took place later at tea time.

Now comes the funny part of my Monday, tragic though it seemed to me at the time. During the afternoon-party a very agitated voice called me on the telephone.

"Is this Mrs. Brown?"

"Oh, Mrs. Brown, this is Mrs. Breakfast Food (her husband's name is synonymous with a cereal), and I'm nearly crazy. I've been divorced from Reginald Brown and I never even heard of Reginald Brown and, oh, my God! What a mess—and my lawyer's out of his office, and if they don't give me a divorce from Mr. Breakfast Food before that train leaves I'll simply die . . ."

"You're what?" I asked flabbergasted. Before she had finished repeating I rushed down the hall to my room, fumbled nervously in my suitcase for my divorce, and there it was—the bonds of matrimony were dissolved between Elizabeth Todd Cushing and John William Breakfast Food. Back I flew to the telephone.

"Oh, how terrible, and I am divorced from your husband!"

Before I had time to call my lawyer he called me.

Mrs. Breakfast Food's case was heard right after mine, and the clerk had mixed the papers. In half an hour the damage was repaired and we were divorced from our own husbands. But what a scare! ELIZABETH.

Stocks Renew Advances As Shorts Lead in Buying

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—After five successive declines the stock market succeeded in reversing its downward trend today, though extreme gains of 1 to 4 points were subsequently cut to an average net advance of around a point.

The market made its spurt in the first hour; thereafter it subsided slowly. Trading on this decline was chiefly notable for its dullness and for persistent firmness of rails coincident with a rally in carrier bonds. Wheat was stronger and cotton appreciated moderately, while U. S. Government loans received calmly predictions that farm mortgage refinancing plans entailed a large bond issue. Trends in these markets were favorable to sentiment toward stocks and afternoon offerings were light.

Railroad equities are being buoyed by prospects of legislation; steps in that direction are expected promptly, for the House Interstate Commerce Committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow, and Wall street anticipates that the ball will then be started rolling. Carrier shares held up well against the downward drift of industrials and utilities. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Santa Fe were up 1 to 1½. Delaware & Hudson, still popular, gained more than 2 while thinly traded Norfolk & Western jumped nearly 6.

Short covering swung the market swiftly upward during the first hour. Commission houses viewed the rebound as a natural recovery from recent declines which had strengthened the list's technical status. Repurchasing orders were executed in a market virtually bare of offerings; when this demand was fulfilled buying power dwindled, but it was apparent there was little immediate desire to sell.

American Telephone, hurrying up 2½ points, found support light thereafter and reacted to close a point lower. Another of the company's subsidiaries, Wisconsin Telephone, cut its quarterly dividend to $1.50 from $2. U. S. Steel all but yielded a rise of about a point and a half, while General Motors eased fractionally. However, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Corn Products, National Biscuit, General Electric, Loew's, American Tobacco "B," Union Carbide, Consolidated Gas, North American and Westinghouse finished moderately higher. Stocks of companies which would benefit from better farm product prices ruled firm to strong. Case rising 2 points, net. Sugars also regained the rise. Sales amounted to 979,624 shares.

What the Stock Market Did

	Thurs.	Wed.
Advances	327	91
Declines	86	322
Unchanged	87	122
Total issues	500	535

Stocks.

Short covering sent prices 1.1 points higher, after five successive declines. Sales totaled 979,626 shares.

Bonds.

Speculative loans led the market five-tenths of a point higher. Some issues gained 1 to 3 points. Sales increased to $10,954,000.

Curb.

Early enthusiasm was lost and gains were slashed to fractions near the close. The market turned dull and sales decreased to 120,000 shares.

Wheat.

A buying stampede sent wheat prices higher. Reports that Roosevelt will not oppose an amendment to the farm bill was an aid to market gains. Corn and oats were up. May wheat sold at 51⅞@51½ cents.

Cotton.

A further small advance was made on trade buying. May sold at 6.34, with the general market up 10 to 18 points. Liverpool reported steady prices and continental buying.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Cheerfulness was maintained on the stock exchange today. Gilt-edged securities advanced further on good buying and cheap money. Gold mining shares lost part of an early advance after being supported by South African and local professionals. Industrials, oil shares and transatlantic issues were the best of the other sections and the market closed steady.

Paris—Although prices on the bourse were irregular and trading light, there was a better tendency following a small buying movement. The closing was well sustained.

Berlin—The tone on the boerse was weak early in the session, but closed more active and firmer.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN IN HOPEFUL DEALING

Speculative Issues Lead in Upturn; Sales Total $10,954,000.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Speculative loans, led by the rails, took the lead in a rather hopeful bond market rally today and prices on some of the usually popular issues came back 1 to 3 or more points.

The session was not all sunshine, however, as pressure against various high grade utilities was not perceptably decreased and there was considerable hesitation displayed by both United States Government securities and foreign obligations.

Except in a few special groups, the trading volume was quite limited. Sales totaled $10,954,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds regained its half-point loss of yesterday.

The upturn in the carriers was based largely upon reports that Washington would soon announce a new legislative program for the transportation industry. Estimates of improved freight car loadings for the past week also were cheering. Business news generally continued colorless.

The more active rail gainers included issues of Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Central Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Kansas City Terminal, Louisville & Arkansas, Missouri Pacific, M.-K. & T., New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern and Western Pacific.

Liberty Loans 3½s lost 10-32 of a point and Treasury 3s sagged ¼. Treasury 4¼s and both 3¾s of 1941-43 and 1943-47 eased. Compensating gains in Liberty First and Fourth 4¼s and other treasuries were in the small fractions.

German government issues eased, as did those of Great Britain, Italy and Poland. French 7½s lost ½ point while the 7s were up 1. Loans of Argentina and Buenos Aires advanced 1 to around 3 points in light trading.

United States Steel Reduces Salaried Workers' Hours

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries plan to reduce working time of salaried employes by 10 per cent on April 1, thus cutting salary costs by that amount, it was learned today.

Wage earners in mills and manufacturing plant will not be affected.

Details of the time adjustment, necessitated by unfavorable business conditions, have not been fully worked out, it was said at the company's offices here. Several other steel manufacturers adopted the "time-off" plan for salaried workers more than a year ago.

U. S. Steel cut salaries late in July, 1931, the reduction ranging from 10 to 15 per cent on compensation of more than $1,800 a year. A second cut of 15 per cent was made last May.

Wage rates were reduced 10 per cent by the steel corporation in September, 1931, and another cut of 15 per cent was effected in May, 1932; since last autumn there has been talk in Wall Street of a possible third reduction, but it has been said that considerable opposition existed to such a step.

Aviation Merger Plan Approved

North American and General Companies to Unite; Meeting Called.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Directors of North American Aviation, Inc., and General Aviation Corporation today approved a merger plan, under which certain assets of both will be segregated in a new company. Property of General Aviation, which will figure in the consolidation, will be paid for in stock of the North American company. Meetings of stockholders of the companies will be called soon to vote on the plan. Reports in aviation circles said that a majority of the large stockholders in both companies have already approved the plan.

Assets of North American, which will be placed in the proposed new company, consist of all the stock of the Sperry Gyroscope Co.; all stock of the Ford Instrument Co.; 74.2 per cent of the stock of Intercontinent Aviation, Inc., and the company's holdings of Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

Shares of the new company, for which a name has not yet been selected, will be issued by North American Aviation and distributed to its present stockholders. Upon completion of the segregation additional shares of North American will be issued to General Aviation in exchange for substantially all of its assets, it was said.

Guilders Up 4 Points; British Pound $3.42½

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Foreign exchanges displayed some rallying tendencies today in relation to the American dollar, but the markets abroad were rather quiet.

The principal improvement was shown by the European gold currencies. Dutch guilders recovered 4 points at a cable rate of 40.30 cents, and Swiss francs and Belgian belgas came back 2 points each. French francs were ¾ of a point higher at 3.93¼ for cables. The British pound sterling was easier at one time, but managed to regain its lost ground and advance its price ½ cent to $3.42½. The Scandinavians, Italian lire and Shanghai taels were moderately firm. German marks again sagged and Japanese yen and Mexican pesos eased.

HIGHER CURB PRICES SLASHED AT CLOSING

Fractional Gains Recorded as Sales Dwindle to 120,000 Shares.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Early enthusiasm in the curb market failed to hold today, and the majority of gains were finally shaved to fractions.

Trading volume attained only medium proportions even in the earlier hours, and at the close trading was extremely dull. The turnover approximated 120,000 shares, compared with 130,000 yesterday.

As a whole, the low-priced utilities gave the best performance of the day. But even they were able to finish with only small portions of their inaugural advances. Electric Bond & Share ran up to 14½ in relatively heavy trading, but ended at 13¼ for a gain of ½ a point. American Gas & Electric held an advance of ¼ at 19¾ after having reached 21½. Other utilities that emerged with small fractions to the good included Cities Service, Niagara Hudson Power and United Gas.

Industrial specialties were rather hesitant, with medium gains ruling in this section. Aluminum Co. of America led this group with a gain of 2 points at 47. Shares of Deere & Co., National Aviation and Swift & Co. edged forward a trifle. In the oils, the standards were slightly higher.

Commodity Prices Seen Advancing

Crude Rubber and Cotton Fabrics at Bottom, O'Neill Says.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Commodities are on the way to higher levels, and crude rubber and cotton fabric are at rock-bottom levels, in the opinion of W. O'Neill, president of the General Tire & Rubber Co.

This observation was made by Mr. O'Neill in an announcement today to the effect that his company had resumed its 1933 national advertising campaign on an enlarged scale. The year's advertising program had recently been suspended.

"To us in the industry," he said, "it is important to realize that crude rubber and cotton fabric are commodities which are certainly as low in price now as they can go."

Reserve Bank to Fill Wiggin-Woodin Places

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today designated the period from April 18 to May 3 for the nomination and election of directors to succeed William H. Woodin and Albert H. Wiggin.

Woodin retired as a class B director upon his appointment as Secretary of the Treasury. Wiggin, formerly chairman of the governing board of the Chase National Bank, recently resigned as a class A director.

Record Orders Given To Southern Pine Mills

New Orleans, March 23 A.P.).—The largest volume of business placed with Southern pine mills since last summer was reported for the past week in statistics released today by H. C. Berckes, secretary-manager of the Southern Pine Association, who said the week's orders were 119 per cent over the previous week and 42 per cent over the same week of last year.

The figures, based on reports from 108 affiliated mills in the South, showed orders for the week amounting to 32,360,000 feet; shipment of 20,393,000 feet, and production of 19,436,000 feet.

Francis Elected Head Of Appalachian Coals

Cincinnati, March 23 (A.P.).—James D. Francis, vice president of the Island Creek Coal Co., of Huntington, W. Va., today was elected president of Appalachian Coals, Inc., the regional coal marketing agency its sponsors hope will stabilize the high volatile industry of the Appalachian region.

The agency, according to C. C. Dickinson, Charleston, W. Va., who was chosen chairman of the executive committee, expects to handle 70 per cent of the production of the region, normally 60,000,000 tons. Divided into eight districts, it will administer the selling of coal from eastern Kentucky, northern Tennessee and southern West Virginia.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN IN BUYING STAMPEDE

News of Proposed Change in Farm Bill Is Aid to Recovery.

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—A buying stampede hoisted wheat 2¼ cents a bushel today, chiefly on reports that President Roosevelt would not oppose amendment of the administration farm bill.

Word that Senate revisions would cut out features of the House agriculture act which the grain trade had looked upon as highly objectionable attracted by far the most attention as cause for the big change in sentiment overnight. Early strength of securities and of cotton added to the impetus of grain price upturns, but profit taking led afterward to setbacks from the day's top figures.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1 to 1¼ cents above yesterday's finish; corn, ⅜ to ⅝ up; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22 cents.

Buying Boosts Prices.

An unexpected huge influx of wheat buying as soon as business began whirled the market upward in violent contrast with five successive preceding days of price setbacks. Unusual absence of wheat offerings at the outset coincided with the rush to purchase. Some grain trade authorities said any farm bill modification which would confine the measure to a land-leasing program would be highly constructive, and would bring about fresh buying.

Suggestions of Russo-British military hostilities appeared to be based on cables that trade agreement negotiations between London and Moscow had been suspended, and that the question of severing diplomatic relations was being considered in London. Late dispatches current here said England was presenting an ultimatum to Russia regarding imprisonment of four British subjects. Estimates that upward of 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat was bought today for shipment overseas was an additional stimulating factor.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. May delivery of corn rose to the best figure since December 1. Shipping demand here for corn was decidedly enlarged.

C. & O. MAINTAINING REGULAR DIVIDENDS

Two California Utilities to Pay Usual Returns on Common Stock.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Although its revenues for 1932 showed a decrease of 17.4 per cent, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway was able to maintain its division, alone among the major lines, by a 24.9 per cent cut in operating expenses, President J. J. Bernet reported today.

In his annual report, President Bernet said the total economies effected in operating expenses amounted to $18,532,746. Of this total the 10 per cent wage cut pursuant to the agreement reached at Chicago in January, 1932, along with salary cuts among officers, accounted for approximately $3,400,000.

San Francisco, March 23 (A.P.).—Two California utilities today announced declaration of regular quarterly dividends on common stock. Pacific Lighting Corporation will pay 75 cents a share May 15 to stockholders of record April 20. Pacific Gas & Electric will pay 50 cents April 15 to share holders on March 31 records.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. reports 1932 loss of $3,032,430, compared with loss of $476,943 in 1931. Loss in the fourth quarter of last year was $1,325,682.

Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co., from May 1, 1932, to when sale of its foreign properties became effective, to December 31, had net loss of $27,756. No comparison is available.

Packard Motor Car Co. today reported 1932 net loss of $6,824,312 after all charges, including a special provision of $1,000,000 which was added to reserves to provide for any losses that might occur in bank deposits. In 1931 the company had net loss of $2,909,117.

Current assets on December 31 totaled $20,449,524 and current liabilities $2,324,590, comparing, respectively, with $24,519,318 and $3,123,154 at the end of the previous year. Inventories were cut by $2,111,332 to a total of $5,762,734 on December 31.

Quarterly dividends were passed today by two of Germany's largest banks, the Continental-Illinois and the First National, while two other Loop institutions declared regular payments to stockholders.

A statement from the Continental-Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. said it had earned its current dividends "substantially twice over" during the last quarter, but that payment was being deferred "in harmony with what seems to be the governmental policy of conserving bank assets."

EXCHANGE TIGHTENS GRATUITIES RULING

New Regulation to Prevent Violations Is Enacted; Tipping Hit.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—To prevent circumvention of its rule forbidding members to give gratuities to employes of the exchange or other financial institutions, the New York Stock Exchange today ordered members to keep a close record of "entertainment" expenditures.

The step is in line with the exchange's campaign to abolish tipping for services by the exchange attaches or others which are not permissible under the organization constitution.

In the past few months several members have been expelled or suspended for various periods for paying for preferential treatment in the distribution of orders and other services.

In its latest warning the exchange directs that "every expenditure incurred directly or indirectly by any member of exchange or firm registered thereon for the entertainment of any employe covered by the rules referred to shall be authorized in writing by such member of the exchange or by partner of such firm, and shall be shown in detail on the books and records of such member or firm.

"Such record shall show the date and amount expended, the names of the persons entertained, and the nature of the entertainment, and shall be preserved for a period of at least three years."

The New York Curb Exchange, which has also disciplined certain members for tipping, has taken similar action.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON TRADE'S BUYING

May Sells at 6.34 With General Market Up 10 to 18 Points.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Cotton had a further small advance today on a renewal of trade buying and covering. May closed at 6.34 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 6 to 9 points.

The opening was 9 to 13 points higher on trade buying and covering which was encouraged by the fairly steady showing of Liverpool. March sold up to 6.32 and October to 6.76 on the early demand, making net gains of 10 to 18 points on the active positions.

These prices attracted some realizing. March sold off to 6.25 and October to 6.63, making reactions of about 7 to 15 points, but the dip brought in more trade buying, while no aggressive selling developed.

Closing Shows Rallies.

Closing quotations showed rallies of about 5 or 6 points from the lowest on the more active months, but were some 6 to 10 points off from the early highs.

Spot people here reported a dull demand, but a generally firm basis in the South and a cable from Liverpool said import buying of American there was confined to odd lots as the basis was impossibly dear in most of the Southern markets.

The futures market in Liverpool was reported steady on scattered continental buying with business quiet. Exports today, 14,635, making 6,056,620 so far this season. Port receipts, 13,293. United States port stocks, 4,420,193.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was steady today, closing 3 to 4 points net higher. Trading was light, only three contracts, or 450 barrels, changing hands. SYMPHONY CONCERT ATTENDED BY 2,500

Felian Garzia, Guest Soloist on Thursday Program Brilliantly Played.

The National Symphony Orchestra, under direction of Dr. Hans Kindler, vied with Felian Garzia, well known pianist and teacher of pianoforte, for high honors yesterday afternoon at Constitution Hall, when the orchestra presented its fifteenth Thursday concert before an audience of more than 2,500.

As guest soloist, Mr. Garzia played Cesar Franck's "Symphonic Variations" for piano and orchestra, a colorful composition brilliantly played, a number ranking high with any solo work presented with the local symphony orchestra.

The program opened in an unusual manner, presenting Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's "Symphony in G Minor." In its four movements—allegro molto, andante, menuetto, allegro assai—the symphony offers a change from the customary selections in that it is an example of symphony in its simpler form. Sprightly, notwithstanding the somber undercurrent, this work goes in for more sheer melody rather than for orchestral pyrotechnics.

The symphonic poem, "En Saga," of Jean Sibelius reveals a vivid musical transcription no less stark and stern than the Viking legends it interprets.

In keeping with the policy of the earlier programs, the orchestra included the delightful waltzes from Richard Strauss' opera, "Der Rosenkavalier," as a representative of modern music, though not in the least sacrificing beauty of tone and melody or skilled composition.

Perhaps these Thursday concerts may not always fall in the catagory of symphonic music, but Dr. Kindler and his program arrangers can never be accused of building any but diversified and always entertaining programs, skillfully played and masterfully directed. W. A. WHITNEY.

Amaryllis Exhibit Has Record Crowd

Rare Specimen Mrs. Wallace Brought From Italy Attracts Interest.

Record crowds continued to pour into the greenhouses of the Department of Agriculture yesterday to see the annual amaryllis show.

Considerable interest was created by the amaryllis formossima, brought from Italy by Mrs. Henry Wallace, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture. Two of the bulbs are in bloom. They are of double formation and resemble an orchid in shape. They are of a deep, rich red color.

Among visitors yesterday were senators and representatives and their friends. Ten bus loads of young women from colleges and academies swelled the attendance. Public school children will visit the show tomorrow. Garden Club members of Maryland and Virginia are planning to view the flowers on Sunday.

$120 in Instruments Stolen.

Joseph F. Soresi, 2210 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, reported to police last night that mandolins and guitars valued at $120 were stolen from his car while parked at Eighth and N streets northwest.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

WHETHER "Gabriel Over the White House," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's pictorial contribution to the solution of the Nation's present difficulties, both domestic and international, will be looked upon as a subject of unassailable timeliness or as a film that falls just a little short of its utmost potentialities by coming a bit late, in view of President Roosevelt's policy of aggressiveness during his first month in office, remains to be seen.

One thing, however, is certain. "Gabriel Over the White House" will be one of the most widely discussed screen releases of the year. Whether for or against will make no appreciable difference to its box-office pull.

This frank and vigorous picture, which opens at the Palace on Friday, March 31, one week from today, and was previewed by the local dramatic desks and a few other invited guests of City Manager Carter Barron, of Loews, Inc., yesterday noon, evidently was devised as much for the sake of its palpable propaganda as for any consideration of strictly dramatic entertainment.

In some of its movements it is confused and indecisive. For example, it is not clear whether President Jud Hammond is prompted to a courageous and effective course of action by the divine prompting of "Gabriel Over the White House," or by the severe rap on the head he receives when he crashes a White House car speeding at a rate of only 98 miles an hour, when the dealer had told him it would do 110! Neither is the relationship between the President and his confidential lady secretary more than inferentially indicated.

These, however, are minor matters. After "Gabriel Over the White House" once passes its introductory inanities and gets into the solid business of dealing with the hunger marchers and the unemployment problem, stamping out organized crime and the gangsters, making Congress behave and collecting the foreign war debts, it becomes a spirited and interesting document, although rather more resembling a volume of important state papers than a drama contrived primarily for purposes of mass entertainment.

There is, of course, the possibility that a few will construe the picture to mean that what some of our Presidents have needed more than anything else has been a good sound wallop on the bean with what George Bernard Shaw is pleased to call a knobkerry.

In the light of recent events that may not be far from the truth.

Speaking of the week of March 31, the stage attraction at Loew's Fox that week will not be Sig. Russ Columbo and His Band, but Milton Berle, the youthful comedian of one of Earl Carroll's recent "Vanities," who picks up his material where he finds it and puts it to better use than the ones who lost it! Following Master Berle, the Fox will present the tabloid edition of "The Desert Song," with Al Trahan, assisted, as usual, no doubt, by Lady Yukona Cameron, penciled in for the not distant future.

There is a major change for the same week, also, down at the Metropolitan. Instead of following "The Sign of the Cross" with the revival of Ed Wynn in "Follow the Leader," as originally planned, the attraction after the DeMille biblical spectacle will be the much-discussed German production of "Maedchen in Uniform," to be succeeded, in turn, by the new production of Dickens' "Oliver Twist," starring little Dickie Moore in the title role. Master Dickie will have a tough order trying to excel Jackie Coogan's memorable performance in this classic part. The long-awaited "Maedchen in Uniform" has been included on the list of the year's "ten best films" in every community where it has been shown. We shall see.

Members of the President's Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps and society leaders of Washington will be the guests of honor tonight at Loew's Fox, when Grace Moore makes her vaudeville debut.

Miss Moore is one of the Capital's favorites, having appeared here in opera, concert and motion pictures. Her concert debut, in fact, was made in this city.

Among those who have already accepted the invitation of Manager R. R. Drissel are the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Harold Ickes, Princess Troubetskoi, Mrs. Alice Nibley Smoot, Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, Dr. and Mrs. William C. Gwynn, Col. and Mrs. Randolph Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Sullivan, Representative and Mrs. Fred Britten, Senator and Mrs. Stephen W. Gambrill, Mr. and Mrs. Goring Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. Strickland Gillilan, the Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter, and numerous others.

Miss Moore, by the way, was an interested spectator at the preview screening of "Gabriel Over the White House," in the projection room of the Fox Film Exchange, New Jersey avenue and K street, yesterday.

Clare Tree Major, founder and director of the Children's Theater of New York, will appear in the cast of "Little Women," which will be presented in the National Theater on Saturday morning, April 8. Mrs. Major will play two parts, doubling as Hannah, the Marches' faithful servant, and Aunt March, the difficult relative of the four little women.

And, of course, you have noticed that Menuhin and Pons are canceled.

Well, they have nothing on the paragraphs that thought they were going to follow this one!

Husband Killed by Bus, Woman Given $1,000

A verdict for $1,000 damages was awarded Mrs. Minnie Beyer, administratrix of the estate of Theodore Beyer, against the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Bus Co. in District Supreme Court yesterday.

Mrs. Beyer, through Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer, instituted suit when Mr. Beyer, 72 years old, was killed when he was struck by a bus of the company at Twenty-fifth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, last May.

ENTIRE CAST SCORES IN 'OUTWARD BOUND'

Pierce Hall Players Give Clever Presentation of Vane's Drama.

"Outward Bound," Sutton Vane's imaginative drama of that Stygian voyage from Here to Hereafter, was presented last evening by the Pierce Hall Players before an audience that compensated its lack of size with its thunderous approval of an excellent play well acted.

A play which the stage and the screen would intrust to no lesser actors than Alfred Lunt, Leslie Howard, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Beryl Mercer, and Dudley Digges, is indeed one to test the histrionic worth of any company. And the Pierce Hall Players need not bow to any troupe of amateur thespians.

To single out any one member of the cast for especial commendation would be unjust to the others, so completely did each of the nine draw his individual part. Scrubby, the steward on this voyage to the beautiful (for some) Isle of Somewhere, was played by Marvin Downey with a suavity that, perchance, gave him a slight edge over the others.

Yet his advantage is slight, for Olga Halms and Paul Alexander, as Ann and Henry, the couple who attempted suicide; Charles A. Bell, as Mr. Prior, the liquor-addicted youth; Mildred Curran, as haughty Mrs. Cliveden-Banks; Richard Harr, as the youthful rector; Myrtle MacMahon, as the kindly Mrs. Midget, incognito mother of Prior; Frank Jamieson, as the arrogant Mr. Lingley, and Edmund S. Sayre, as the examiner, gave delineations in broad sweeping strokes sufficiently restrained to bring out all the inherent drama and bitter irony of the Vane play.

"Outward Bound," which was staged under the direction of Paul Alexander, will be repeated in Pierce Hall of All Souls (Unitarian) Church this evening. W. A. WHITNEY.

Life With Head-Takers To Be on Screen Tonight

Life among the native head-takers of Formosa will be described to members of the National Geographic Society at the Washington Auditorium by Capt. Carl von Hoffman, traveler and photographer.

With a motion picture camera, Capt. von Hoffman, who has for many years visited and photographed strange tribes in the world's out-of-the-way places, penetrated the mountains of Formosa, 8,000 feet above sea level, a feat infrequently accomplished by white men due to the head-taking habits of the natives.

Civic Clubs to Gather At Mayflower Tonight

More than 500 persons are expected at the Mayflower Hotel tonight at the first annual get together meeting of the Federation of Civic Service Clubs of the District.

The gathering will open at 6:30 p. m. with dinner. Clubs represented will be the Lions, Optimists, Soroptimists, American Business, Civitan, Reciprocity, Monarch, Wise Men's, Zonta, Quota, Round Table and Exchange.

Wiggin Sails From Paris Today.

FRIDAY MARCH 24, 1933 SPORTS

ROSENBLOOM 2-1 FAVORITE OVER GODWIN TONIGHT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

WASHINGTON folks may be pardoned for anticipating with more than casual interest the reports from Madison Square Garden tonight where Bob Godwin will be attempting to lay a heavy hand on Maxie Rosenbloom and the world light-heavyweight boxing championship.

Born in North Carolina, but hailing from Daytona, Fla., Godwin, during the past two years, has adopted the Capital as the base of his operations and for the past two summers has been life-guarding at nearby Herald Harbor. He has won himself a goodly grist of local followers in his frequent appearances at Laurel and Alexandria, and until a purely Washington product comes along as a world championship threat, Godwin will do.

Both Enter Ring With Titles.

Godwin will carry into the ring with him tonight the recognition as world champion by the National Boxing Association, the result of his victory over Joe Knight two weeks ago in Florida. Rosenbloom is the recognized title holder of the New York Commission, a more respectable label. The winner thus will be rewarded by universal acclaim as champion.

The bout at the Garden does not promise much dynamiting. Rosenbloom was never regarded as a knocker-out, but his ceaseless slapping tactics have enabled him to win the decision whenever the occasion demanded. Godwin also has never been noted for his punch, which thus stamps the bout as a boxing match, at which game Rosenbloom is regarded as a past master, which accounts for the odds of 2 to 1 in his favor.

Godwin Career Parallels Stribling.

The cases of Godwin and the other recent light heavyweight sensation from Dixieland, Young Stribling, run strangely parallel. Both are products of home cooking, and Godwin, like Stribling, will be accompanied to the Garden by his maw and paw, who, like the elder Striblings, have dedicated their boy to the prize ring industry.

Like Stribling, Godwin has been a fighter from this teens. Possessed of a statuesque physique, he progressed far as a boxer during his tours through the canebrakes, but, like Stribling, has failed thus far to develop a powerful punch. In there against Rosenbloom tonight, Godwin will risk being slapped by the flyweight punches of the champion in the effort to trade a few healthy wallops on his own account.

Rivals Have Battled 3 Times.

Three times before, Godwin has met Rosenbloom and it is a pleasing commentary on his chances tonight to note that twice he held the champion to draws, once losing the decision. The latter bout took place at the Laurel Arena last summer and the margin of Rosenbloom was not so pronounced as to preclude a different decision eight months later.

The Godwin boom received impetus by his clear-cut victory over Joe Knight two weeks ago, but a month previous to that bout, Godwin lost a decision to Les Kennedy at Portner's Arena that in nowise boosted his stock.

But with Rosenbloom's impressive showing against the German Heuser two weeks ago when Maxie displayed a new-found stamina to come from behind and win the decision, the odds of 2 to 1 against Godwin appear fully justified.

He who gets slapped often enough loses the decision.

Dodgers Sign Stripp Following Ultimatum

Miami, Fla., March 23 (U.P.).—Jersey Joe Stripp, third baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today surrendered in his holdout war and signed for the 1933 season at the club's terms.

Stripp's pen wielding gave the Dodgers a 100 per cent signed roster. The 30-year-old third sacker was the last and most obstinate of the club's holdout brigade.

Jersey Joe arrived at camp last night after receiving an ultimatum from the club, notifying him that the last offer was final. He had checked out of camp a few days ago when he failed to reach an agreement with Treasurer Joe Gilleaudeau, and went to his home at Orlando, Fla.

The club offered Stripp a reduction of about $2,000 from his 1932 salary, but Stripp demanded a raise on the strength of a good season last year, when he batted .303 in 138 games.

U. S.-Owned Mare Choice At Aintree

94th British Classic Draws Field of 34, 150,000 Fans.

AINTREE, England, March 23 (A.P.).—A sudden switch in betting odds, establishing Heartbreak Hill, American-owned entry, as the favorite in a field of 34 jumpers, tonight added a sensational touch to preparations for the ninty-fourth running of the classic Grand National Steeplechase. Post time tomorrow is 3 p. m. (10 a. m. E. S. T.)

Odds on the big, 8-year-old Irish-bred mare, owned by Mrs. C. S. Bird, jr., of Boston, dropped to 8 to 1 after previous quotations of 20 to 1. They were hammered down by late reports of the fine condition of Heartbreak Hill, which finished fifth among nine finishers in the Grand National last year, and has a consistent record.

Few Favorites Have Scored.

Seldom in the long history of the race over the difficult 4½-mile course has a favorite come through, but the rise in Heartbreak Hill's stock gave the American contingent here a thrill and displaced the previously favored British pair, Mrs. M. A. Gemmell's Gregalach, a former winner, and Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller. Latest betting figures held Golden Miller as second choice at 10 to 1 and Gregalach third at 100 to 8.

Heartbreak Hill will carry 163 pounds as compared with 175 for Gregalach and 170 for Golden Miller. Mrs. Bird's jumper is by far the outstanding hope in the American list of nine entries. Tonight's call-over rated John Hay Whitney's Dusty Foot, to be ridden by the noted George H. (Pete) Bostwick, at 66 to 1, and Mrs. T. H. Somerville's Trouble Maker at the bottom of the list, at 200 to 1. J. A. Drake's Coup de Chapeau was at 80 to 1 and inside the first ten.

The odds on Gregalach, 1929 winner, increased to 100 to 8 after his jockey, J. Farcus, broke a collar bone in a minor race today. W. Parvin will be astride the big gelding tomorrow.

Meanwhile, from every part of Britain, from every walk of life, the vanguard of an expected crowd of 150,000 began converging on this little Liverpool suburb today. Everybody from the Prince of Wales and his royal brothers to the humblest of England's army of unemployed and his ragged children joined the mobilization of racing folk for the world's greatest steeplechase race.

As to the outcome of the race, it is a fair guess only that not all will finish. At least they never have. Some will fall at dreaded Bechers Brook, others will be eliminated at the famous Valentines Brook, while the hopes of still others will be shattered at the open ditch or at the 15-foot water leap in front of the huge grandstand.

There was racing at the track this afternoon, but the crowd talked of little except the Grand National, especially after Bostwick piloted his own horse, Flaming, to victory in the Lancashire Hurdle Race.

Bostwick's victory wasn't over the national course, but over a hurdle layout inside the big jumps. He saw Aintree's famous jumps for the first time, however, inspecting Bechers and Valentines Brooks and the other big hedges.

Charleston Open Led by Hambrick

Charleston, S. C., March 23 (A.P.). Archie Hambrick, Zanesville, Ohio, walloped par fore and aft today to lead a field of 70 in the first round of the Charleston open golf tournament. He had an 18-hole score of 66, 5 under the Wappoo course par.

While the remainder of the big field of pros and amateurs struggled with strong winds from each of the two rivers which parallel the course, young Hambrick staged the second best performance recorded for the Charleston course. Some years back Henry Picard, the local pro, turned in a 64, 7 under par, but until today nobody had even approached that mark.

Archie Hambrick, Zanesville, Pa., 34, 32—66; Bill Mehlhorn, New York, 35, 35—70; Charlie Guest, Deal, N. J., 34, 36—70; Walter Hagen, Detroit, 35, 35—70; Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, Va., 35, 35—70; Bill Burke, Greenwich, Conn., 37, 35—72; Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, 34, 38—72; Ted Turner, North Adams, Mass., 36, 36—72; Joe Kirkwood, New York, 35, 37—72; Al Espinosa, Akron, Ohio, 37, 35—72; Roland Hancock, Stoneham, Mass., 37, 36—73; Freddie Hyatt, Charlotte, N. NEW INFIELD HOLDS HOPE OF CARDS

GRIZZLED old Gabby Street must have heard somewhere of the legendary warning—never carry all your eggs in one basket. So it's no choice of his, of the St. Louis Cardinals either, that this spring the old sergeant is lugging around all the Red Bird hopes for another National League pennant in one container—an infield basket.

Just one bit of harsh luck and the old sergeant, troubled as he is, will have a humpty dumpty problem on his hands. A fine run of luck, a safe passage, and Gabby is directly in line again for No. 5 in the string of pennants the Cardinals have won in recent years.

Must Fill Three Berths In Infield.

Blessed with a great young pitching staff, plenty of outfielders who can hit and go get 'em, catchers of the best and reserves growing steadily all over the finest farm system in baseball, Gabby still faces the toughest problem of any team in spring training—that of satisfactorily filling three out of the four places in his infield.

Gambling absolutely, Gabby will start Rogers Hornsby, now in his thirty-eighth year and back to the scenes of his greatest batting triumphs, at second base in an experiment that just might click and provide the sensation of the 1933 season.

To replace Charley Gelbert at shortstop, there is a choice between Gordon Slade, understudy for Glenn Wright last year in the Brooklyn infield, and Charley Wilson, once turned back as not of major league caliber by the Boston Braves. Either or both may now be ready. So far Gabby can only hope.

Holding out, not too pleased anyway with a shift from second to third, Frankie Frisch has missed most of spring practice already. If he should spring a muscle later, there is only "Sparky" Adams, with a tricky knee, to fall back on. At first base, Street has no worries with clouting Jimmy Collins to depend upon.

Once past the bogie men that haunt the infield problem, the Cardinal prospects leap straight upward. In Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, Paul Derringer and "Tex" Carleton, the Cards boast three of the best young right-handers in the league. There is no left-handed trio in the circuit to match Bill Walker, Bill Hallahan and Jim Mooney. Jesse Haines, right-handed veteran, adds the balance of age. If Dazzy Vance is not traded, little more could be asked in the way of eight hurlers.

YANKS RETURN TO ST. PETE.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 24 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees will return to St. Petersburg for the 1934 spring training season, Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, announced today.

The world champions have been coming here since 1925 and next spring will mark their tenth training trip to the city.

BEN JEBY TO WED.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Ben Jeby, recognized in New York State as middleweight boxing champion, and Evelyn Siedman today secured a license to get married. They said they would be married Sunday.

Rookies Hurl 2-Hit Game At Biloxi

Burrows, Friederichs Hold Yannigans Hitless Until Ninth.

Regulars Get 5 Runs Off Weaver Early in 5-2 Victory.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post's Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 23.—The season's first no-hit game loomed plainly visible on Biloxi's shrimp-bound horizon here today as the regulars, with two rookies pitching first-class ball for them, ground out a 5-2 victory over the Yannigans—who went hitless until one was out in the ninth inning.

Joe Cronin's strategic move yesterday of assigning Monte Weaver and Earl Whitehill to pitch for the Yannigans, in order that the regulars would have some big league hurling to bat against, went sadly screwey.

Weaver was as easy to hit as the ground, and the regulars pounded out their five runs off him in the first three innings.

On the other hand, little Lefty Burrows, the rookie who was pitching for the regulars, turned in a simply spectacular mound performance. Nothing that looked like a hit did he allow for six full innings.

Only Kerr Gets as Far As Third.

Only one man, Johnny Kerr, got to third base as a result of the five walks he permitted. Three of the walks he gave were in the first inning and two in the sixth. In the second, third, fourth and fifth innings he set the Yannigans down in tit, tat, toe order.

Bog Friedrichs relieved Burrows at the start of the seventh, walked three of the first four men to face him and saw the no-run mirage that loomed on the dusty horizon erase itself when Cliff Bolton, one of the walkers, came home on Kerr's long fly to left. But still no hits were forthcoming. At the start of the ninth Manager Schacht, tactical genius of the hitless wonders, announced to the absolutely empty grand stand that he was going to pinch hit and break the deadlock. He rolled to Buddy Myer.

Then Earl Whitehill, who somewhat fancies himself as a batter, connected with the blow that broke up many a choice first paragraph prematurely planned by the members of the press in attendance. It was a triple over Goose Goslin's head. With two outs, Cecil Travis singled Earl home or the second run of the game.

Whitehill, by the way, looked pretty impressive against the regulars. It was a hot day and the veteran let himself go full steam. He allowed but two hits in the four innings he worked.

Tomorrow is the beginning of the end of the Biloxi encampment. The Cleveland Indians, already one up on the Nationals, come over here from New Orleans for a two-day engagement that will wind up Biloxi hostilities and activities for the year.

Manager Joe Cronin has chosen his two infants, Bud Thomas and Ed Linke, to tame the Tribe tomorrow. Replying in kind, manager Peckinpaugh has designated Belve Bean and Ralph Weingarner, another brace of rooks, to scuffle up the pitching mound. Aside from these children, only grown-ups will appear in action.

3,500 Watch Draw Battle On Mat

Bout Goes 2 Hours; Grobmier Throws Daviscourt.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

FOR a few minutes last night at the Auditorium, it looked as though the weekly rassle sketch had been rewritten and the unusual spectacle of a draw with both men knocked out would result. This suspicion was rampant when, after about an hour of wrestling, Ernie Dusek and Abe Colemen, contestants in the feature, crashed head-on on a double flying tackle. Both revived, however, and were very much in action when the whistle sounded indicating that the two-hour time-limit had expired.

To the 3,500 fans present, the two matmen reminded of a baby Austin meeting a Mack truck—that is, when the two were introduced, for Dusek had an advantage in weight, height and reach. But it was not long after the two settled down to serious work that it could be seen that Dusek had no other advantages.

Both Able to Absorb Punishment.

While the drawn battle showed neither the winner, the two certainly demonstrated how much punishment well-trained athletes could absorb, while they also showed that they could dole it out as well as take it. It was a rough, tough, mauling match all the way, with the fans thinking the end was in sight on any number of occasions. Several times one or the other would start what appeared to be the copyrighted Jim Londos finish, but each time they were fooled.

Dusek was much the rougher and was repeatedly warned by Referee Bennie Bortnick but Coleman, too, lost his temper on occasions and gave the fans who like their meat raw plenty of cause for excitement.

In comparison to the feature bout, all of the others on the card were tame. Fred Grobmier tossed Dick Daviscourt with his figure-four scissors in 25 minutes in the semifinal after it looked as though he was in for a licking. Daviscourt was much stronger and managed to work his way under the ropes and thus out of one of Fred's specialized holds but he could not escape the second one.

In other matches, Frank Judson and Joe Cox wrestled to a 30-minute draw, Hans Kampfer threw George Vassell in 17 minutes on a series of crotch holds and body slams and Karl Davis downed Marshall Blackstock on a rocking chair split after 14 minutes of labor.

Frisch Is Signed At Secret Salary

Bradenton, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—Frank Frisch, infielder and major holdout of the St. Louis Cardinals, signed his 1933 contract late today after a conference with Sam Breadon, president of the club, and Branch Rickey, vice president.

Salary terms of his contract were not revealed. A contract sent to Frisch several weeks ago contained the stipulation that his salary was to be based partly on the Cardinals' gate receipts and his performances in games. Frisch received a flat salary of $18,500 last year.

ST. STEPHEN BEATEN BY MILLERS

S.E. Five Wins, 41-27; J. C. C., Griffs and Olmsted Advance.

FOGGY BOTTOM'S contenders for the unlimited District A. A. U. basket ball championship were soundly thrashed by Southeast Washington's representatives and forthwith relegated to the ranks of the also-rans as Miller Furniture tossers walloped St. Stephen's by a score of 41-27 at Tech High last night.

All of the games in the big tournament sponsored by The Post were decided by rather large scores but action was at a swift pace.

Jewish Community Center's 130-pound representatives gained the semifinal round by virtue of their 42-14 triumph over Penn Tires, while the Clark Griffiths entered the final round in the 100-pound class by drubbing Georgetown Boys Club, 32-13. In the only other game Olmsted Grill moved a notch nearer the 145-pound crown through the medium of a 42-11 victory over the Wilson Flashes.

The Wilson Flashes fought every inch of the way, but were outclassed by their more experienced rivals. They displayed a good performer in Porter at guard. All of the Olmsted regulars had a hand in the scoring, with Danzie leading the parade with 5 field goals and 3 fouls for 13 points. Understein and John had 9 and 8, respectively.

J. C. C. Five Gains Semifinals.

The J. C. C. 130-pounders coasted into the semifinals of their class at the expense of the Penn Tires team. The Center team, led by Silverman and A. Scheinaman, rolled up a 27-to-5 margin at the half and was never in danger, despite the do-or-die play of the Tire boys. Scheinaman accounted for 15 points, to 9 for Silverman and 6 for Jaffe. Wilson, at center, did the best work for the losers, with 3 field goals and a foul for 7 points.

Gershenfelt, at forward, led the Clark Griffiths to the finals of the 100-pound division at the expense of the Georgetown Boys' Club. The game was featured by the tight defensive work of both teams in the first half, which found the Griffs leading, 8 to 5, at intermission. In the last half, the Griffs pulled away. King stood out for the Georgetown team.

Millers surprised by the manner in which they polished off St. Stephen's in the final. Sherman and Harris led the attack that enabled the eventual winners to assume a 20-to-11 lead in the first half. Malone and Chatlin were outstanding for the Saints, but they were powerless to halt the triumphant march of their Southeast rivals.

Florida Youth Makes Bid For Title

Bout Looms as Boxing Match; Southerner Outweighed.

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, March 23 (U.P.). Maxie Rosenbloom, the clouting comedian from New York's Ghetto, and young Bob Godwin, battling Florida cracker, will toss their respective claims to the world's light heavyweight title into Madison Square Garden's ring tomorrow night, and the winner will emerge undisputed champion.

Rosenbloom, who is recognized as title holder in New York State, is a 2-to-1 favorite to annex Godwin's National Boxing Association title. The odds probably will lengthen to 3 to 1 at the ringside because of Maxie's heavy backing.

Slapsie-Maxie is favored because the 15-round route is believed to be to his advantage, because of his showings in three previous bouts with Godwin, and because of the excellent performance he turned in two weeks ago in beating Adolph Heuser, of Germany, European light heavyweight champion.

Rosenbloom Won At Laurel.

In three bouts last year, they fought to draws at Daytona Beach, Fla., Godwin's home town, and at Charlotte, N. C., but in their third brawl at Laurel, Md., Rosenbloom took the 10-round decision.

Despite Rosenbloom's clowning in the ring and his reputation as a member of the Dawn Patrol, he is one of the coolest, craftiest boxers in the game. Moreover, he demonstrated in the Heuser bout that his 28 years have not sapped his stamina or ruggedness. In that bout he took severe punishment in the early rounds, but came from behind to trounce decisively the tiring German champion.

Maxie will have a slight advantage in the weights, scaling about 174 pounds to Godwin's probable 168. No knockout is expected because neither is a lethal puncher. When Godwin started his ring campaign seven years ago, he was a hard hitter, but two broken hands since then forced him to rely more on boxing skill than slugging.

Godwin's First Defense Of "Title."

It will be Godwin's first defense of the N. B. A. title which he won from Joe Knight, of Georgia, at West Palm Beach on March 1. It will be Maxie's sixth defense of the New York State title.

Like W. L. ("Young") Stribling, whom he has displaced in the affections of Dixie boxing fans, Godwin first gained prominence by beating ancient Mike McTigue when he was only 17. Like Stribling, he is managed by his father, and his mother is always present at the ringside.

Kick at Post Does Mare No Harm

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—J. E. Smallman's consistent mare, Boscobel, was kicked on the flank by Clean Play while at the post for the featured Tamiami Claiming Purse here this afternoon, but the impolite treatment seemed only to make the daughter of Sir Greysteel run all the faster. She led her field home with four lengths to spare for her second straight at this course and her backers received 3 to 1.

It was another score for invaders from Havana. Starboard Light, also a recent arrival from Cuba, garnered the place position by a half length from Clean Play. Boscobel ran the 1 mile in 1:38 flat. Well ridden by the promising apprentice lad Joe McCleary, Boscobel performed as if much the best. She was restrained off the pace until leaving the far turn while Brown Wisdom and Busted showed the way.

Boscobel Responds to Urging.

When asked to run, Boscobel easily forged to the front and never was menaced, although Starboard Light closed fast through the stretch. Clean Play ran an improved race to be third.

Jim Macaw upset calculations of the form players when he rang up a nose victory in the first event to pay an even $40. Judge Primrose saved the place by a head from Calgary Kay. Judge Primrose and Memories Dear cut out the running, but Jim Macaw came up with a rush entering the stretch. Memories Dear was bumped wide and dropped out of serious contention. Calgary Kay had a rough trip, but closed steadily when clear. Jim Macaw did not catch Judge Primrose until the last stride.

Hitting the Headpin

Engineers outscored their opponents in the Killowatts League at Convention Hall, turning in a 569 game and 1,643 set. Jackson's 140 and Kraus' 349 were high.

Deavers carted away all the prizes in the Daylight League at Convention Hall when he massaged the lumber for a 135 game and 359 set. Master Printers had a 534 game and 1,577 set.

Morton's lived up to its name at Convention Hall in the Nation Wide League and swamped the opposition with a 1,429 set, including a 493 game. Baxter's 124 game and 320 set were high.

Michigan retained its position at the top of the Intercollegiate Alumni League by winning all three from Lehigh. Phil King, of Princeton and Ed Duffies, of Cornell, tied for the game honors at 138, but King bagged the set award with his 359. Cornell's 564 and Princeton's 1,594 accounted for the team laurels.

Eva Leiberman stole the show in the Ladies Federal League at Arcadia, unbalancing 137 pins for high game and 372 for the third highest set of the season. Labor took three from Internal Revenue No. 2 and in doing so rolled a 533 game and 1,522 set.

The leading Collegian quintet smashed the all-time set record in the Prince Georges County Men's League at Mount Rainier last night with a score of 1,815. Not the least conspicuous of the scores was Naylor's 407 set and 139 game.

Action Marks District Water Polo Championship

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 23.

Business picked up from a Bennings angle today. In place of the two-a-day complex that has followed me of late, I came through with three today, including Betty Wee, Flying Sailor and Ruane. Boscobel and Starboard Light ran one two in the feature and I had them two one. And Honey Locust, one that I have warned you about on several occasions, finally awoke to run second at a $16.80 mutuel. I sent Mike to the movies tonight and tackled the books with a vengeance. It is with a feeling of confidence that I pass these along.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—HEY THERE, sharing top weight of 116 pounds, should have little trouble collecting a set of brackets in this field. I have heard that TREMENDOUS is working well and awaiting a cheap field. This may be it. FULL DRESS looks like the show proposition.

SECOND RACE—LADOGAN did some fancy running for me the other day, and off that effort I'm going to give this one a chance to sail home ahead of these juvenile maidens. JUSTA HYMAN has shown speed on occasion and may make himself troublesome here. ALTENA for the show end.

THIRD RACE—WAYWARD LAD looks as solid as anything listed in this sprint, and I expect to see him hotfoot home in front. NOAH'S PRIDE is far down the list and may have a say in the final award if in action. GOLDEN EFFORT for the remainder of the purse.

FOURTH RACE—VON SION appears capable of shouldering 118 pounds and taking this group in camp. May break on top from that No. 1 post and never be headed. GOLDEN FATE gets in light and will be right there if the top one makes any mistakes. DORSAYS is in good form and should get in the money picture.

FIFTH RACE—MERIDIAN QUEEN came through with a smashing second the other day after I warned you that this miss was only fooling. Looks like they might go on to win with her tomorrow. SOLACE is always dangerous. LAURA GAL showed speed last out and has a chance to take it all.

SIXTH RACE—IMPEACH and MISS CORRINE will battle it out for the chief dough here or I'll be sadly mistaken—and I have been before. LOYAL LOUIE, recent winner, is the sleeper. Tab accordingly.

SEVENTH RACE—There is no doubt about the cheapness of GRACIAS. I was told that this one was going to get out of the maiden ranks in Florida. I tired of waiting and they shot, only to take the place. May be different tomorrow. DARKLING and TEMPLE DANCER for the rest.

New Pro to Operate Woodmont Golf Shop

Tom Hudgins, of Richmond, Va., yesterday was appointed professional of the Woodmont Country Club by Morris Simon, chairman of the golf committee, and thereby takes over direct operation of the golf shop which recently had been operated by a local radio concern, under a concession plan, with Hudgins in charge.

Since the discontinuance of Arthur B. Thorn as professional, a number of local pros have indicated their disapproval of the plan of operation, according to Mr. Simon, who stated that the radio concern requested the club to relieve it of the suggested plan in an "effort to obviate these objections and the unpleasantness caused thereby."

Orcutt, Hill Advance In Pinehurst Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., March 23 (A.P.).—Four experienced tournament golfers today won the right to renew rivalries on the links by advancing to the semifinals of the North and South open tournament for women.

Miss Orcutt advanced today with a 3-to-1 victory over Miss Helen Waring, of Pinehurst. Mrs. Hill turned back Miss Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., 6 and 4. Miss Quier beat Miss Betty Abernathy, of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2, and Miss Wall conquered Mrs. T. B. Welderseim, of Philadelphia, 3 and 1.

CAPITAL CITY JRS. START MAY 21

Age Limit Retained; Midgets to Meet Next Week.

JUNIOR baseball teams will inaugurate their quest for the Capital City League pennant, tantamount to the city championship, Sunday, May 21, they decided at last night's meeting held at the District Building. The open date was selected because of its nearness to the close of the high school season and will enable many schoolboy players to play in the first game. By startnig on this date the league also will have fifteen playing days for the regular campaign, thus insuring the completion of the championship series before football takes over the stage.

Other items of major importance were disposed of last night. It was agreed to abide by the age limit in force last year permitting any boy not attaining his nineteenth year before midnight, June 1, to play in the junior division.

Franchise fees, drawing up of a schedule, and other such matters were tabled until April 18 when the teams will meet again. It is impossible to map a schedule until all franchises have been awarded, and the cost of franchises hinges on the number of teams entered. However, league officials and members of the District of Columbia Umpires' Association are working on a plan whereby the cost will be considerably below that of last season.

The league is still open to any teams desiring to join. It will be sponsored by The Post and Municipal Playground Department. Teams seeking franchises may obtain the necessary information at the sports department of The Post or at room 313, District Building.

The meeting of the midget and insect teams scheduled tonight has been postponed until next week. The date will be announced in the Sunday edition of The Post.

Central Lacrosse Team Makes Debut

Central High School's recently organized lacrosse team receives its baptism under fire today at the Mount Washington Club, Baltimore, where the Boys Latin School eleven will induct the local lads in the mysteries of the ancient Indian sport.

Brain Injury Feared For Jockey Humphries

At the track's emergency hospital physicians reported Humphries apparently was suffering from concussion of the brain. He was rushed to San Diego for treatment.

Handsome Belle, ridden by Hescott, was near the lead in the 6-furlong race and the nine-horse field was closely bunched when she dropped. Westire was running directly behind the filly. Humphries was thrown hard, but his mount was uninjured.

Fine Baseball Talent at Eastern

Looms as Favorite Despite Pessimism of Coach Guyon.

NEVER in his life did Chuck Guyon roly-poly Eastern High School coach, predict a winning team. He preferred to say, "Well, we'll do our best," and about two minutes later his team would walk out on the field, or floor, whichever, the case happened to be, and maul daylights out of the opposition.

Chuck never got into the habit of viewing his boys' championship hopes through rose-colored glasses, but it is a matter of record they captured their share, and more, of titles in competition.

Nineteen thirty-three hasn't changed Guyon much—just aded another ounce or so to his girth and a couple of ounces to his plentiful store of wisdom, but he still refuses to concede Eastern's baseball team more than an outside chance of winning the interhigh championship.

He may be right, but a glance over the material available around Lincoln Park dispels any thoughts that Eastern is a rank outsider. It's the favorite, and you can wager a couple of steins of 3.2 per cent lager that the boys will be close to the top, if not at the head of the class, when school closes in June.

A couple of positions on the team need strengthening, but there are enough veterans on hand to give it a firm foundation, and if the underpinning is in good condition the superstructure can be satisfactorily patched up.

Boasts Three Sterling Fly-Hawks.

Eddie Fitzpatrick, Tommy Nolan and Reds Miller give Eastern the strongest outfield in high school circles. They are good-sized lads and natural ball players. Fitzpatrick and Miller are fence busters par excellence. Eddie topped the school series in home-run clouting last season. While Nolan's hits haven't been known to smash any longitude records, they drop safely more frequently, and every hit helps.

Guyon has Harry Bassin, Joe Mills and Dicky Fitzgerald as a nucleus for the infield. Carl Mills is available for the catching assignment. All are better than average batters, with the exception of Fitzgerald, who draws too many passes to accumulate very many extra-base hits.

Cecil Hale and Franny Cleary head the list of candidates for regular mound assignments, but both toss them in orthodox fashion, and Guyon wants a southpaw to help out. He has discovered that high school boys usually are a bit shy when facing a left-hander.

GRIFFITHS, CLOVERS IN A. A. U. FEATURE

girls teams clash on the north court with the right to meet the Bennings girls for the championship at stake, and at the same hour on the south court Mount Rainier tackles the Christ Child tossers in the quarterfinal round of the 130-pound class.

A pair of attractions that would stand out in any group of games are scheduled in the unlimited division. Fort Washington plays U. S. Bureau of Investigation at 8 o'clock in the first of these, with Lazzeri's Clovers and Griffith-Consumers concluding the evening's business an hour later.

The soldiers from down the river defeated the Mercury A. C. in a thrilling first round battle to remain in the running and are prepared to further their titular aspirations at the expense of Ty Rauber's sleuths tonight. The winner will meet Delaware and Hudson in the quarterfinals.

Though the odds are slightly in the Griffs' favor, Manager Bob Lyles' courtmen are not considered overwhelming favorites in their battle with the Clovers. Mr. Lazzeri's representatives toppled Mount Vernon in their series debut, and a game with United Typewriter Grays in the quarterfinal round awaits them if they hurdle this Griffith barrier tonight.

Schulte Sees Better Deeds With Change of Scenery

Ballyhoo as Costly Rookie Did Game No Good in St. Louis.

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 23.—Of the half a dozen or so new ball players who will go through their motions out on Georgia avenue, beginning April 12, the massive figure of big Fred Schulte is liable to steal the show. If Schulte plays the kind of baseball he's capable of this season, you can expect to hear any number of District fans say, very vacantly, "Who?" when somebody asks them whatever became of Sammy West.

The big Dutchman has the makings of a truly great player, and a colorful figure. He's had a strange career in baseball. He's only 28. Three years ago he was a self-admitted failure. Today he sees new light, new fields to conquer, something to work for.

Few players have ever come to the majors with more of a fanfare of front-office ballyhooey than Fred. The Browns paid $75,000 for him, plus three players, after he batted .347 for Milwaukee in 1926. Fred's pace before that had been sensational. He was a sandlot pitcher in 1924 when Waterloo picked him up. He batted .368 for them. They promptly sold him to Milwaukee for $1,500. Milwaukee took his toe plate away from him and sent him to center field in 1925. The Browns got him at the end of the next season.

Read His Praises In Papers.

Fred, who is like that, read how good he was in the papers and believed it so wholeheartedly that he managed to bat a respectable .317 his first season with the Browns. The fanfare increased in volume. He read where he was a swell fielder, another Speaker, and he was just about to believe that when he did something that suddenly knocked all the illusions out of him and revealed to himself that he was nothing but a big rookie, with a lot to learn. He ran into a cement wall, chasing a fly, and knocked himself unconscious for ten hours.

That was his first doubt. He began to get them about his batting also. He dropped to .286 in 1928. In the outfield he ran into Heinie Manush and besides hurting Heinie badly he broke his own jaw and knocked out too many of his teeth. From that day, in 1929, it might be said that he didn't play a natural game. The fanfare kept hitting his ears and eyes. Nobody seemed to understand that he was just a rookie, prematurely tossed into hot competition. Everything he did on the field became strained. He pressed, and pressing is as bad in baseball as it is in golf. He tried to live up to his $75,000 price tag, and it was too much.

St. Louis felt they had lost money on him, and that slowed him up even more. Schulte is the kind of fellow who would work for no salary if you'd promise to pay him off in backslaps, encouraging words and an understanding spirit. That's what he's getting down here, and a good salary besides. Walter Stewart, who has known him since he came up from the minors with a halo around his head, says he has never seen the big boy work like he has down here in Biloxi.

Schulte feels that now he can begin to play ball. He feels that the Washington fans don't know him from Aunt Hattie; that he has no reputation to live up to, that any thing good he does in Washington will be looked upon as a surprise, whereas in St. Louis it was expected of him.

FRED SCHULTE.

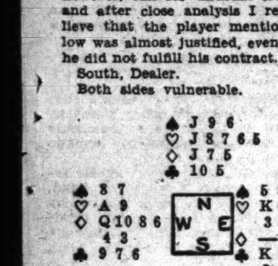
BIDDING A LIGHT SLAM.

IT IS almost unheard of for a player to open the bidding with a suit bid of one and then bid a slam at his next opportunity to bid, after his partner has given him a discouraging response. Certain hands, however, call for unusual treatment, and after close analysis I really believe that the player mentioned below was almost justified, even though he did not fulfill his contract.

South, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1NT	2♡
6♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The chief trouble with the hand was North's bid of one notrump. Of course, South should have bid two spades, but deliberately opened the bidding with one, hoping to obtain some response which would mean something. He knew full well that he ran the risk of being passed at one, but felt that the advantages of the bid outweighed the disadvantages. East's two-heart bid was really the cause of his downfall. He figured that with East able to make a vulnerable Overcall he must have the suit in question, and, consequently, his partner's bid must be based on Queens and Knaves in diamonds and clubs. After all, the Queen of diamonds and a doubleton club would give him a very good play for the Slam, and naturally there was no way of forcing such a hand to take any action. All in all, the bid was not so bad, even though, in the play, he did manage to go down 2.

Even with the worst possible Dummy there is a play for six, which consists of finding the Queen-Ten of diamonds in the East hand. Since this did not prove to be the case, the Declarer was forced to reconcile himself to a loss.

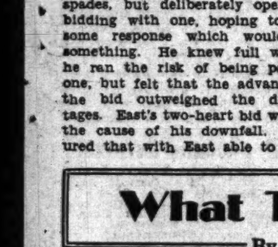
Had North correctly passed, East would have reopened the bidding with two hearts and then North and South would never have reached a Slam—South's second bid would have been four spades.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF March 24 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m. from 11 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Compromises will be the order of the day. You will have to consider the wishes and desires of others more than is usually the case. Individuals gathered together in groups will pull together and work in a high degree of harmony. The family will be a strong unit this day.

The child born on this March 24 will probably hold itself quite aloof from all people; even toward members of his own family this characteristic will manifest itself. The child will not possess a secretive nature, but it will be endowed with great reserve and restraint. It will prefer to work out its own problems rather than to seek help.

If March 24 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person who believes firmly that each individual is master of his own destiny. You do not believe in luck or in fate. You do believe, however, that each one gets his just due, and that he who seeks good reaps that which is good, and vice versa. Yours is a strong character. You are unbending and unyielding when you know you are in the right. On the other hand, you are the first to recognize your mistakes and to admit them. You are always seeking to better yourself and to improve your condition in life.

Born on March 24, you are more that likely a versatile person, one able at a moment's notice to jump from one task to another, and to perform them all with better than average success. Yours is essentially a scientific mind, one with keen powers of analysis and deduction. You are more than a little mathematically inclined. For amusement you prefer games or pastimes that require thought. Bridge and chess probably appeal strongly to you, and it is not at all unlikely that you make a hobby of playing one or the other, and with considerable success, too. The women born on this date invariably are possessed of great charm and poise; they stand out head and shoulders in any assemblage or social group.

Successful people born on March 24:

John W. Powell, geologist.

John H. McKenzie, chess champion.

Garret P. Serviss, astronomer and author.

George Francis Train, author and financier.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Meanderer

Shops Again for Week-End Entertaining Needs; Spring Flowers, Cocktail Olives, Miniature Pretzels; Spiced Ham and Honey Butter on List.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Purple larkspur, a few daffodils and some fragrant freesias in lavender or pink may be mixed in a bouquet to brighten a week-end party for as little as 75 cents in an H street flower shop, whose name has been known to Washington for nearly 30 years. Or stately blue lupines, so seldom seen outside of gardens, perfect large white narcissus (let's slip in its catalog name, "poeticus") and some of the orchid-like Spanish iris in pink, yellow or violet, all costing just a little more, would have delightful charm on the party table.

Pitted olives, all ready to be dropped into the just-right cocktails that Washingtonians know how to serve, sell for 40 cents in a bottle of about 50. The Meanderer found the cocktail olives, and some brand-new pretzels, much reduced in size, that should sell well in these days of relaxing prohibition in an old, established grocery on Fourteenth street. The small pretzels are in stick form, crisp and appetizing. They sell in a pound tin (containing a great number because the pretzels are very light), for 45 cents.

Minced and buttered chicken, ready for spreading quick sandwiches, sells in the store just mentioned for 25 cents a tin.

Bits of hallowed-out crisp toast, meant to serve as a foundation for caviar, anchovies and other canape uses, are in boxes of 48 at 30 cents. Thin, small wafer cups for the same use are packed in long tins holding two dozen, for 25 cents. These new helps in serving appetizers sell also in the well-known grocery on Fourteenth street.

Home-baked ham seasoned with cloves, brown sugar, vinegar and red pepper is 30 cents a pound if bought in the half or whole ham, and 50 cents a pound if sliced. This ham is cooked by the resident of a large market association, a dealer in cold meats. The ham is not cooked under his order, but cooked by himself and no one but himself, in his kitchen at home.

Honey butter is a new product, guaranteed to contain pure creamery butter and pure honey. It is meant for hot biscuits, waffles and in cooking for recipes requiring butter and sugar. The honey content of the compound substitutes for the sugar. A stand in a K street market, selling the product recommended by a high-class dairy, offers the honey butter.

Loaves of date-nut bread are selling for 15 cents a loaf in markets operated by women from nearby farms. One market is on the old Georgetown road, the other in Takoma Park, Md. Two dozen strictly fresh eggs sell in these places for 35 cents.

Hearts of artichokes, packed Italian style in brine, and lemon-flavored, sell in 10-ounce cans for 20 cents in a stand operated by a young Italian in a market on K street. They make delectable salads and also are frequently dipped in egg and cracker dust and browned in butter or olive oil.

Minced veal, smooth and appetizing, of much the same consistency as liverwurst, is a new product offered by a women's farm-to-home market in Bethesda. It sells for 30 cents a pound. Prune cakes, 20 cents each; Boston brown bread; rich home-made ice cream; strawberry tarts with whipped cream, 5 cents each; and eggs at the rate of 2,000 dozen a month sell in this market on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

A Style A Day

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE.

Chiffon daytime dresses for summer in dark colors are going to be very good. These navy, black and brown sheer summer frocks, worn over lighter colored slips as a rule, are stitched and shirred, tucked and pleated. Softly tailored styles are somehow very appealing in this unexpectedly soft material—a chiffon tailored suit has all the earmarks of a flattering surprise!

• • • •

Black dresses with a touch of white are all in the air for spring—and for summer town wear, too. All you have to do to make an old dress look like a perfectly new one is to give it a touch of white! That's why I made you a leaflet telling you how to make more than a dozen things out of organdy! Don't have to sew a stitch, either, just measure and cut and send to the hemstitchers, and altogether follow directions. And any one of the collars I tell you how to make in this leaflet would cost $7 in a store! With your clever fingers, it will cost 10 or 20 cents, and what about that perfectly ravishing organdy hat—and that quilted organdy bag, and oh, better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet and see for yourself what you can do with organdy!

• • • •

Cartridge pleats are used for trimming on jackets and coats, and at the shoulders of dresses. They are a good way to confine fullness without being obvious about it!

• • • •

White embroidered organdy, on white pique—in fact, most any white material with sleeves and a short bolero—is smart and new and flattering and very summery—worn right over one's darker colored evening dress. This habit of covering up the decollete with something that slips on and off is strong in the mode—it's getting so that I for one feel rather raw in a decollete with nothing over my sleeves or shoulders!

Au revoir.

Guiding Your Child

—By MRS. AGNES LYNE—

Parents' Wishes.

ONE of the curious things about the way the parental mind works is that it is likely to assume that the child can do whatever the parent wants him to.

Very often the parent wants his child to be all those things which he himself wanted but failed to be.

A man who aspired to be an engineer but was forced by circumstances to become a business man is likely to assume that his child will fulfill this ambition for him. Animated by the desire to live out his life dream in the person of his son, he takes no notice of the fact that the latter has no interest in engineering and lacks ability to think scientifically.

He forces the boy into a line of study for which he is unfitted and refuses to believe that his poor progress is due to anything but unwillingness to concentrate. Many a lifelong failure owes its origin thus to the fact that the parent refused to accept the obvious fact that his child could not be and do what he the parent had set his heart upon his doing. It would be better to allow the child to follow its own inclinations. He is more likely to excel there. The parent can find more pride in that excellence than in mediocrity in his own chosen pursuit.

Again, when a child sucks his thumb, dawdles over his food, is given to day-dreaming, telling untruths, does anything, in fact, which his parents disapprove of, they proceed as though he could change all these unpleasant characteristics for desirable ones simply because they want him to.

They fail to realise that their wish may not be sufficient to make the child relinquish a habit or an attitude which brings him satisfaction. They do not try to find out how these things look from the child's point of view, why he persists in them or what steps would be necessary to retrain him.

How to Keep Well

DAILY DOSE HARMFUL.

M. B. B. writes: Is the daily use of Epsom salts in small doses harmful?

REPLY.

CRAMPS IN LEGS.

S. N. J. writes: What is the cause of cramps in the limbs from the knees down? Sometimes they are very excruciating, cramping up the ankles of the feet, making the lower part of the leg as hard as iron. To avoid these conditions I wrap the legs at night with a woolen blanket. Nevertheless, that is not always successful. I have used an alcohol rub before retiring. I am 87 years old and well preserved in general health, except that I am constipated occasionally. I am not a hearty eater. I dress comfortably during the day and usually sleep well at night.

REPLY.

Old people are very prone to leg cramps. The best remedy is heat, locally applied. Wear flannel pajamas with feet such as children wear. Do you use plenty of warm cover? You may need to use a hot brick or water bag.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE.

MRS. P. H. writes: "I have a charming new daughter-in-law (five sons but no daughters of my own) who has taught me many beauty secrets. She has at last convinced me that gray hair does not necessarily mean that one is getting very old and that one can be lovely even with gray hair. She recommends a soft permanent, feeling that gray hair can not look its best when straight, and she says to write you for advice on how to take care of my hair to show it off to advantage. As I shall be traveling, will you answer in the column. I subscribe to the paper, so it will follow me on my trip."

• • • •

Don't you think Mrs. J. H. is fortunate in having so charming a daughter-in-law who is on her toes for beauty knowledge and eager to help her mother-in-law?

It is very true that gray hair looks lovelier when waved; not a hard, tight marcel, but a soft wave to frame the face. I advise every woman with gray hair to have a permanent wave, a very good permanent. This is very important, as oversteaming may leave yellowish streaks in the hair which destroy all the beauty of a silver crown.

Avoid.

Special care is necessary to keep gray hair lovely, but it is worth all the time and patience it requires. More and more women are realizing that gray hair is not a sign post of age. Far from it. It can be a mark of distinction. It can stamp one as an individual and call forth many enthusiastic ahs and ohs as the silver-crowned one walks into a room. The first thing to avoid is allowing the skin to become lined, wrinkled, the chin to double or sag. Gray hair makes a young face look younger and an old face look older. There's that magic in it. So the first thought of the gray haired woman should be to keep her complexion youthful.

The next: to keep her hair in top-notch condition. Avoid too frequent curling with hot irons, strong soaps, artificial drying, and remember that the hair must be rinsed very thoroughly after the shampoo. A bluing rinse may be added to the last water to preserve the blue-white cast.

Many gray-haired women make the mistake of not using any make-up. Others the mistake of using too much or a too vivid make-up which gives the face a hard look. Softness is the keynote to gray haired beauty. Softness in make-up and costume colors. Soft coral rouge and lipstick, flesh or ivory powder, and a soft brown mascara for brows and lashes. Don't allow brows to be gray. For colors: blue-grays and blue-greens, pinkish tans, coral and rose beiges. Avoid yellowish tints in make-up or costume colors.

I have a very complete bulletin called "Growing Gray Gracefully" which will help you to preserve the silver lowdiness or change to its original color and which covers the subject of accenting gray hair beauty very thoroughly. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for this bulletin.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BREAK IN THE CLOUDS.

FAREWELL to all fears of depression!
You worry about it; I shan't;
An uncle of mine is a foreman
In charge of a big pretzel plant!

Away with the mists and the fog banks!
A turn now appears in my luck;
A nephew of mine is a salesman
Who's selling a swell beer truck.

My worries I'm certain are over—
My head is so light that it floats;
For dad has a job with a fellow
Supplying white aprons and coats.

No more am I scary and fretful—
I'm gay as a gull in the breeze;
For I have a brother who works for
A firm selling crackers and cheese.

The future at last is quite cloudless,
No longer I cry, "All is lost!"
Two cousins of mine now have contracts
To cover bar mirrors with "frost."

I'm cheered by the outlook so sunny—
My song is a gay Boop-a-doop;
For I've gone to work and I'm selling
A very fine ivory "scoop."

How quickly my viewpoint's been brightened!
No longer I feel like a worm;
My sister, a bokkeeper able,
Is now with a cooperage firm.

I once thought the country was finished,
But now it is clearly a darb!
I'm courting a girlie whose father
Is known as the King of Bicarb!

A PRUSSIAN STEW.

Hitler may yet promise the people a chicken in every Potsdam.

Somehow or other President von Hindenburg acts like a man who is tickled to death to be rushed to the nearest exit.

ZANGARA AND THE LARGER QUESTION.

Goes shambling to the chair;
He's hurtled to a flaming death
As blue smoke fouls the air * * *
But those who sold him tools of death
May prosper everywhere.

A scarecrow figure leaves a cell
And shuffles down an aisle;
They bind him to seat of death
*In swift and legal style * * **
Inside the pawn and sporting shops
The owners sit and smile.

A bitter, vicious cursing gnome
Stands in a blinding light;
His flesh is seared by leaping flames
That scorch his soul in flight * * *
But they who handed him the gun,
They feel that all is right.

Assassin, yes, a ruthless one,
Who'd slay all persons high,
And cared not whom he killed or maimed,
He well deserved to die! * * *
But what of us who deal in death
With all who wish to buy?

S. A. R. Resolution Against Recognition Is Left With His Secretary.

Bearing a resolution adopted by the District Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution against the recognition of Soviet Russia, Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries, retired, called on President Roosevelt yesterday, accompanied by representatives of other patriotic societies.

The delegation was unable to see the President, but left the resolution with his secretary to be delivered to him. In addition to the resolution, a list of about 150 organizations which have protested against Russian recognition was presented. These organizations, Gen. Fries said, represent about 28,000,000 persons.

Gen. Fries was accompanied by Rear Admiral Sumner E. W. Kittelle, Col. Alonzo Gray, past president of the District Chapter of the S. A. R., and Frank B. Steele, secretary-general of the national society.

Brain to Control New Psychology

Dr. Moore Stresses Need for Man to End Blind Lead of Emotions.

The way is open for a psychology which will point to ideals that intelligence alone can conceive and by means of which a responsible will can elevate human conduct above the level of emotional drives and blind desires, Dr. Thomas Verner Moore, professor of psychology at Catholic University, said yesterday in the third of a series of lectures at the Carlton Hotel for the benefit of St. Gertrude's School of Arts and Crafts.

Although the background of theory of behaviorism is untenable, Dr. Moore said, behaviorism accomplished something of value in the years that it occupied the field of psychological thought and activity. The valuable contribuion of behaviorism, which has passed its zenith, he said, consists in stimulation of study of the child.

Engraving Bureau Allows 593 to Go

Extra Force Worked Two Weeks on Emergency Currency Job.

Five hundred and ninety-three temporary employes at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing were released yesterday after two weeks in connection with the emergency currency issuance, it was announced by Director Alvin W. Hall.

Director Hall said in a statement to the press that the nearly 600 workers had been taken on because of an "unusual demand for currency from Federal Reserve banks during the latter part of February and early part of March."

With the return of circulation of much currency and the amount printed by the emergency force, said the bureau director, there was no further need for additional currency. The dismissals were effective at the close of work Wednesday.

INDUSTRIAL SAVINGS MAY BE U. S. BANK

Officials Study Plan for Asking National Charter for Institution.

Industrial Savings Bank officials are now considering, among other plans, an application for a national bank charter, W. H. C. Brown, president and conservator of that institution, announced yesterday. Reviewing the history of the bank, which opened for business at Eleventh and U streets northwest in 1913, Mr. Brown said that for twelve successive years it paid a dividend of 6 per cent on its $50,000 capitalization.

In the twenty years of its history it has been engaged in business at its original location, he said. Last year this bank, the oldest, and now the only, colored banking institution in the city, absorbed the Prudential Bank, a savings bank, which was located at 715 Florida avenue northwest, Mr. Brown stated.

Officers of Industrial Savings Bank are Walter S. Carter, chairman of the board; W. H. C. Brown, president; Jesse H. Mitchell and John R. Hawkins, vice presidents; John H. Simms, treasurer; William A. Bowie, cashier; Walter L. Carter, assistant cashier. Directors are William A. Bowie, Joseph H. Briggs, Walter S. Carter, William H. Jackson, John S. Simms, Jesse H. Mitchell, Walter L. Carter, J. Franklin Wilson, Isaac S. Mason, William H. Cowan, Talley R. Holmes and John R. Hawkins.

Officials of Potomac Savings Bank said yesterday that stock is being subscribed to the proposed Potomac National Bank to succeed to the business of their institution by persons in all parts of Washington as well as in Georgetown and the surrounding sections of Virginia and Maryland.

Stockholders of this savings bank will meet this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the offices of Caton & Caton, statutory attorneys, at 111 South Fairfax street, Alexandria, Va., to consider an agreement for the sale or transfer of the bank's assets to the proposed national bank.

Franklin Trust Accounts.

All local savings banks are chartered under State laws and as the Potomac Savings Bank is chartered under Virginia laws, its "principal office" is located in Alexandria although its banking office is in Georgetown.

The Franklin National Bank yesterday received authority from the office of the Comptroller of the Currency to open new trust accounts for depositors to use as checking accounts. Deposits in this fund are to be subject to checking without restriction and are to be segregated from other funds in the bank.

The deposits will be kept either in cash, in the Federal Reserve Bank or in Government securities under authority of the emergency bank laws. This bank recently was turned over by the national bank examiner in charge as conservator to Thomas P. Hickman, a vice president of the bank, as conservator.

DIVIDEND PLANNED BY INSOLVENT BANK

International's Depositors Will Get 16 2-3 Per Cent Next Monday.

The office of the Comptroller of the Currency announced yesterday that a dividend of 16 2-3 per cent will be paid to depositors and other creditors of the insolvent International Exchange Bank, Fifth and H. streets northwest, next Monday. The notice stated that depositors and other creditors of the bank will be required to call at the bank building between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4:30 p. m., beginning that day, to receive their dividend checks.

According to the notice, $62,906.25 will be necessary for the payment of this first dividend. This is to be distributed among approximately 3,500 persons. The International Exchange Bank was closed by order of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency on July 14, 1932, and as of that date the book value of its assets was $708,034.79 and its liabilities were $546,979.06.

This bank was one of four local banks which closed last July for general banking business. In February, two of these, the Departmental Bank, 1726 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and the Bank of Brightwood, 5913 Georgia avenue northwest, issued their first payments. The fourth, North Capitol Savings Bank, 1 H street northwest, is reported as preparing to make its first payment soon. All are savings institutions.

Note of Poison Victim Donates His Body to Use of Medical School.

After writing a note saying that death was preferable to unemployment and giving his body to medical schools, Charles Maples, 50, drank poison in his room at the Reliance Hotel, 119 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He was found dead yesterday by a chambermaid.

The note said:

"I am reduced to poverty and begging. Death is better than the life of a jobless. I have no relatives. Medical schools can have my body. Poison is my last friend."

A glass that contained part of a dissolved poison tablet was found on a table near the bed. The man had lived at the Reliance Hotel since last November.

ANTIHITLER PROTEST MEETING IS MAPPED

60 Jewish Organizations Name Group to Arrange Demonstration.

A mass meeting, possibly Monday night, was voted last night by representatives of 60 local Jewish organizations to express intense feeling of Washington Jewry against anti-Semitic "outrages" and "atrocities" in Germany under the Hitler regime. After a spirited meeting at the Jewish Community Center, a committee of 15 prominent persons was chosen to arrange for the meeting.

Persons of all creeds and political beliefs are bidden to the meeting which will probobly be held in Washington Auditorium and speakers of national prominence are expected to make addresses.

Motions by younger members of the assemblage to stage demonstrations of protest at the German Embassy were overwhelmingly voted down.

Christians Sympathize.

To great applause, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, indorsed the protest meeting plan and indicated other Christian clergymen concur with him.

Isidore Hershfield, who heads the committee of fifteen, contended that more time than intervenes between now and Monday, when similar meetings will be held in other cities, may be required to arrange for speakers and a meeting place. Mr. Hershfield also declared that the distinctive political location of Washington also made it feasible for a demonstration of feeling apart from other cities.

Speakers and Committee.

Among other speakers were Morris Rosenberg, lawyer and banker; John A. Korman, Benjamin Meiman, Rabbi J. T. Loeb and Ben-Zion Emanuel, principal of the Washington Talmud Torah.

The committee to arrange the meeting is as follows: Isidore Hershfield, chairman; M. D. Rosenberg, John A. Korman, Joseph Solomon, Irving Goldstein, Benjamin Meiman, Louis E. Spiegler, Mrs. Henry Oxenberg, Rabbi J. T. Loeb, Morris Garfinkle, Joseph L. Tepper, Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, Joseph Wilner, Morris Blagyer, Rabbi Solomon Metz and Zalmon Henkin.

The meeting was presided over by Joseph L. Tepper.

M'CARL GIVES RULE ON PAY DEDUCTIONS IN FURLOUGH PLAN

Comptroller General Replies to Questions by Civil Service President.

Problems relative to pay deduction and leave which have brought furrows to the brows of Government department heads and considerable concern to Government employes, because of the new economy act, were cleared up yesterday in rulings by Comptroller General McCarl.

Mr. McCarl's rulings were in answer to queries by the Secretary of the Treasury and anticipated a set of eight interrogations sent to him by Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, acting on behalf of the Personnel Officers Association.

The decision of the Comptroller General dealt with the legislative furlough section of the economy act, which provides for the statutory 24 days' leave for which there is a deduction of 30 days' pay.

Administrative Furlough.

Mr. McCarl ruled that the furlough may be granted to employes between March 31 and July 1 in cases where the legislative furlough up to 18 working days, representing 22½ days' pay, has been deducted but not used.

In cases where any amount over 22½ days' pay has been deducted, and the furlough has not been used, the employe can obtain a refund on the March pay roll for the excess above the 22½ days, it was ruled.

The Comptroller is expected to rule at an early date on the subject of administrative furlough. This is leave taken without pay over and above the statutory month in instances when insufficient appropriations made the step necessary so as to avoid dismissals.

Campbell's Questions.

The questions included in the communication sent the Comptroller by Mr. Campbell include the following:

Shall an employe who has been administratively furloughed for 15 days during the present fiscal year be refunded 1¼ days' pay for the 18 days' legislative furlough which has been deducted through March 31, provided the legislative leave has not been taken?

Will the salary deduction for each day of administrative furlough or voluntary absence without pay after March 31 be at the base rate or the base rate less 35 per cent or other determined rate of deduction?

The act of March 20, 1933, makes effective the provision authorizing 15 days of annual leave. Does the annual leave begin to accrue on April 1? In branches ordinarily operating on a calendar year leave basis, may the full 15 days be taken between April 1 and December 31, 1933, or shall the 15 days be prorated over the nine remaining months of the year? In branches ordinarily operating on a fiscal year leave basis, may 15 days of annual leave be granted prior to June 30, 1933, beginning a new leave account for the fiscal year 1934?

May annual leave which had accrued and was unused on June 30, 1932, be granted to employes after March 31, 1933? Has annual leave at the rate of 15 days been accruing since June 1, 1932, under the provisions of Section 215 of the legislative act of June 30, 1932? In this connection reference is made to your decision of July 8, 1932 (A-43056).

Cumulative Provision.

Section 215 of the legislative act of June 30, 1932, states, in part: "Provided, That part unused in any year may be cumulative for any succeeding year." Does this mean leave will accrue for the year immediately following or indefinitely? For example: May an employe accumulate his leave for a period of four years and take 60 days in one leave year?

Section 4, paragraph 1, subdivision (d) of the act of March 20, 1933, reads as follows: "The appropriations or portions of appropriations unexpended by reason of the operation of the amendments made in subsection (a) of this section should not be used for any purpose but shall be impounded and returned to the Treasury." Section 8 of the same act reads: "The appropriations or portions of appropriations unexpended by reason of the operation of this act shall not be used for any purpose but shall be impounded and returned to the Treasury." In submitting the estimates for salaries for the fiscal year 1934 the departments were required to deduct 8 1-3 per cent from the original estimate as representing the furlough deductions which during the present fiscal year are required to be impounded in the Treasury. In view of this it would seem that the paragraphs above quoted should be construed as requiring impoundment during the fiscal year 1934 of only the difference between 8 1-3 per cent and the 15 per cent or other determined deduction from salaries; otherwise, there would be in effect a double impoundment or 23 1-3 per cent reduction in available funds. Your ruling on this point is also requested.

Mrs. Norton Asks New District Budget Method

A change in District budget procedure to eliminate unnecessary delay caused by Budget Bureau review of the Commissioners' estimates was advocated yesterday by Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District Committee.

Mrs. Norton believes the Commissioners should deal directly with Congress on budget matters. She thinks the time of the Budget Bureau should be devoted entirely to more pressing national fiscal problems. Her proposal, she said, is in line with her oft-repeated declaration that the District Commissioners should be given more powers.

Spring Snow

Hail and Sleet Fall Upon City; Fair Weather Promised Today.

Spring, which officially started last Monday, actually appears to be a long way behind.

Sleet, light snow and hail fell in Washington yesterday to the bewilderment of early birds and flowers. Hail the size of chestnuts was reported to have fallen about 8:30 a. m. in the outlying sections and around noon in the downtown area. The Weather Bureau, however, had no official report of this phenomena. Western Maryland experienced a snappy snowfall.

Fair weather is predicted for today with continued cold. A disturbance from the West is expected to bring cloudy and cold weather over the week-end.

DRIVER IS ACQUITTED IN SPEEDWAY DEATH

Robert Rupell Is Exonerated After Girl Passenger Is Killed by Auto.

Robert F. Rupell, 29, was acquited of a charge of manslaughter late yesterday in District Supreme Court by a jury in the court of Chief Justice A. A. Wheat. Rupell was charged with having caused the death of Evelyn C. Petrone on the speedway last September.

Through Attorney Harry T. Whelan, Rupell showed that while he was driving his coupe around the speedway in the morning hours, an automobile parked near Hains Point suddenly pulled out into the roadway, forcing him to swerve sharply.

This caused the machine to turn over three times, he said. Miss Petrone, a passenger in his car, was thrown out and the car rolled over her, causing instant death. Two other passengers escaped injury.

Rupell was tried two months ago on the same charge and the jury failed to agree. The indictment charged Rupell with driving at not less than 55 miles an hour. Miss Fanny Irwin, a passenger in the car, fainted on the witness stand and was excused by Justice Wheat from further testimony.

New Traffic Signs To Be Placed Soon

Markers to Identify U. S. Highways Also Will Be Installed.

A uniform assortment of traffic signs, made at the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va., reached the District Building yesterday and will be approved shortly by the Commissioners, after which they will replace gradually the existing signs.

Besides the usual speed, stop, no-parking and slow signs, the assortment includes highway markers which will be installed on the principal national routes running through the Capital.

The speed signs are in black letters on a white background, the quiet and slow signs are black letters on a yellow background, and no-parking markers are red letters on white.

HARRIS JURY FAILS TO REACH VERDICT AND IS LOCKED UP

Bronx Alibi Is Submitted by Defense in Slaying of "Milsie" Henry.

The fate of Charles Harris, alleged Philadelphia pumpgun slayer of Milton (Milsie) Henry, was still in the hands of a jury in District Supreme Court today. The jury was given the case after a three-day trial at 7 o'clock, and at 10:30 p. m., when no verdict has been reached, the jurors were locked up for the night. They will resume deliberations at 10 a. m. today.

Harris made a valiant attempt to "beat the charge" of shooting Henry in a last-minute alibi defense. Through his attorneys, Denny Hughes and Arthur M. Sager, of New York City, he introduced several witnesses who testified that he was in the Bronx, New York, on the morning of April 21 when Henry was shot down as he sat in his automobile in front of his Brown street home.

One witness, Mrs. Frank Brenser, of Brooklyn, said that she was positive Harris was at her home shortly before the time of the murder because her brother returned home shortly after that hour after having been away for a long time.

Another witness, Simon Goldstein, an attorney, of New York City, testified that he had employed Harris as an investigator in a criminal case in New York City on the day of the murder. He flew down here late yesterday to testify. When he arrived the case had been closed, and Justice O'Donoghue interrupted the argument of Assistant United States Attorney Julian Richards to allow Goldstein to take the stand.
